Dulles Named as Source

CBS Commentators Say Secretary Told Press and Radio

Washington, April 10 (AP)—Two Columbia Broadcasting System commentators named Secretary of State Dulles last night as the point of origin of a number of recent newspaper stories on Far Eastern policy.

A story on Korea and Formosa published by the New York Times was denied by the White House yesterday, leading Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) to call for an investigation as to where it originated.

On separate CBS broadcasts last night, commentators Eric Sevareid and Bill Costello said the stories had their origin in a background session which Dulles held with a number of correspondents.

Each said he was not present at the session.

"There must be by now many hundreds of persons in Washington who know the source of the stories," Sevareid said. "It was the secretary of state, himself

Discussed Whole Problem

"Mr. Dulles discussed the whole problem of post-armistice Korea and Formosa; he specifically authorized that State Department thinking on these matters could be printed, conditioned only by the familiar restriction against naming the source."

Dulles could not be reached for comment on Sevareid's broadcast.

The New York Times said in a Washington dispatch yesterday that the Eisenhower administration is willing to accept a boundary at the waist of the Korean peninsula, some 80 miles north of the present battle lines. The same dispatch said the administration was considering the possibility of a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa with a Formosan republic as its ultimate goal.

Some hours after this was published, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty issued a statement saying the administration (1) has never reached any conclusion that a permanent division of Korea is desirable or consistent with decisions of the UN, and (2) has given no consideration to a UN trusteeship for Formosa.

Only One of Several

Arthur Krock, the Washington correspondent of the Times, commented that his paper was "only one of several reputable newspapers and press associations that published the story."

"It is another instance of the administration getting its wires crossed and blaming the consequences on the press," Krock said.

Knowland, Republican policy leader in the Senate, told his colleagues it seemed inconceivable to him that no decision had been reached on a permanent division of Korea. Calling for an inquiry as to the point or origin of what he termed inspired stories, Konwland said:

"It is extremely important that this kind of loophole be stopped now because this nation cannot have two secretaries of state. It must speak with one voice

New Crisis Looms Over Asia Issues

Communists Are Viewed as Eager to Reveal Differences in U. S. in Policies

Washington, April 10 (AP)—The United States seems to be heading into a new period of trouble and controversy over critical Far Eastern issues.

Some authorities think that is one reason the Communists have shown such interest in renewing talks about peace in Korea—that they hope to create a situation in which they can exploit differences of view within the U. S. and between the U. S. and its allies.

The situation was pointed up by a dispute over published reports on decisions made or under study concerning the future of Korea and Formosa in event a Korean truce is arranged.

The White House denied yesterday that the Eisenhower administration has given any "consideration" to a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa. It also said no policy had been formed on getting a permanent peace line in Korea at the narrow point of the peninsula about 80 miles north of the present battle line.

Problems Are Posed

But there was no denial that problems of grave import, in significance reaching beyond Formossa and Korea, are being posed by the Red peace offensive as applied to the Far East.

On the contrary, authoritative officials recognize that, if and when the U. S. joins in a conference to make a permanent Korean peace and perhaps a broader Far Eastern settlement, it will face troubles with friend and foe alike.

Some consideration already is being given to the major issues.

1. If there is peace in Korea, what attitude should the U. S. take toward the two sets of Chinese rulers—the Communists on the mainland and Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa? The possibility of eventually coming to terms with the Reds has not been excluded from the thinking of some key officials—especially if Pieping indicates a Titotist tendency to break away from Soviet control. There has been some talk about the possibility of treating Formosa as independent. But Chiang has committed himself to re-conquer the mainland and he has had powerful support in the U. S.

.. Backing for Chiang

2. If the Chinese Reds prove loyal to Moscow but seek to develop friendship with such countries as Britain and India, should the U. S. give Chiang all-out backing at virtually any cost? The British, Indians and various other friendly governments recognize the Chinese Communists, not the Nationalists. In the past they have appeared far more ready than the U. S. to do business with the Reds, particularly India.

3. How far should peace in Korea be used to support demands for peace in Indochina, which the Eisenhower administration has treated as part of the same Far Eastern pattern?

4. In Korea itself what kind of

Clark Gives Approval to Final Draft

Signatures Might Clear Way to Truce Pact in Korea; 120 Yanks to Be Freed

Munsan, Korea, Saturday, April 11 (AP)—UN liaison officers go to Panmunjom today with authority to sign an agreement which would start the exchange of sick and wounded Korean war prisoners April 21. The Reds have indicated they also will be ready to sign.

Gen. Mark Clark last night approved the final draft of the agreement which could clear the way to a truce in Korea. He authorized UN liaison officers to sign it.

The Communists proposed yesterday that full-scale armistice talks be reopened to discuss their new plan for exchanging all prisoners of war—the last major barrier to a truce. The proposal was included in a "very important letter" delivered to UN negotiators at Panmunjom.

The text of the letter, released later by the UN command, appeared to restate the March 30 proposal of Red China's premier, Chow En-lai which was basically the Indian proposal adopted by the UN and which China previously rejected. The text also was broadcast by Peiping radio.

Authorizes Signing

Gen. Clark authorized signing of the disabled POW agreement after interpreters had completed Chinese, Korean and English translations and the final draft had been transmitted to Tokyo.

Staff officers working on the mechanics of the exchange agreed on two sites to be used as reception centers in Panmunjom. Allied and Communist engineers will start construction of the centers Saturday.

Under the pact, the Communists said they would send home 120 Americans; 20 British, 15 French, Turks, Canadians, Greeks and Dutch and about 450 South Koreans at the rate of 100 daily.

The allies agreed to hand over 5,100 North Koreans and 700 Chinese at the rate of 500 daily.

Comes in Letter

The Communist move to resume full-scale truce talks—deadlocked for a year and suspended since Oct. 8 over prisoner exchange—came in a "very important" letter delivered at Panmunjom.

It was addressed to the chief allied negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., from the head of the Red delegation, North Korean Gen. Nam Il. Harrison is in Tokyo.

The points included:

1. Let all prisoners go home who choose to return.

2. Turn over to a neutral country—to be named—all POWs who are listed as not wanting to return to their homelands.

3. Let "our side" give explanations to POWs "afraid to return home, thereby attaining a just solution to the question of repatriation."

Two Bridges Will Be Built In Rosendale on Thruway

Two bridges will be built in the Rosendale area when the Whiteport-New Paltz section of the New York State Thruway is built, a state engineer said today.

One to be 40 or 50 feet high will span the Rondout creek at LeFever Falls and the other, a lower structure, will cross the Wallkill river near Perrine's bridge.

Meanwhile, as work progresses on the Sawkill-Route 28 section west of the city, and a contract is about to be let for the Kingston Whiteport section, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk renewed his request to the state thruway authority to prevent temporary congestion in the city by not emptying thruway traffic on the Washington avenue viaduct and narrow uptown streets.

The mayor, who had written a similar request to the authority on Aug. 7, 1952, again asked that traffic over the completed section of the route north of the city, be diverted to and from the Thruway north of the city at present.

This would mean that traffic would continue going to and from the Thruway, off and on Route 9W at Saugerties, and lighter traffic would make the inter-

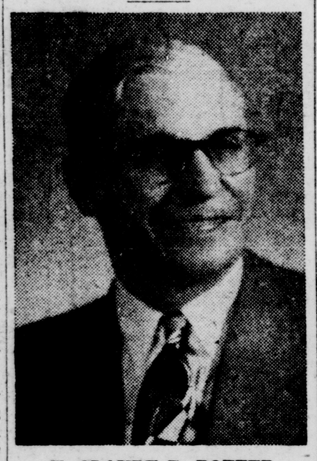
Potter to Transfer To Kingston for Phone Company

Corning Office Manager Joined Firm in '13 in This City in Construction



F. CLAUDE R. POTTER

F. Claude R. Potter, manager of the Corning office of the New York Telephone Company since 1939 and now serving his second term as president of the Corning Chamber of Commerce, will be transferred May 1 to Kingston as superintendent of field operations in the commercial department of the Kingston district headquarters, the Evening Leader of Corning, has announced.

A native of Copake, near Hudson, Potter joined the New York Telephone Company in this city in 1913, where he worked for several years in the construction department both in the office and outside.

In 1920 he was transferred to the business office in Kingston as "outside representative" and was made manager of the Kingston office in 1925. In 1927 he was transferred to Albany as division commercial agent in charge of connecting company work and four years later was assigned to the Syracuse office to do the same kind of work with the central division headquarters. He came to Corning as manager in 1939.

Weiner Hose Plans 75th Anniversary

Historic Volunteer Unit Will Mark Date at Banquet April 28

Weiner Hose Company No. 6 will observe its diamond jubilee at a banquet in the Elks Club April 28.

Joseph F. Sullivan, city historian, will be guest speaker, to mark the historic date. Edwin L. Kolts is general chairman of the banquet committee and Joseph Disch is chairman of arrangements.

The hose company was organized on April 2, 1878 as Franklin Hose Company No. 6. It had 18 charter members under jurisdiction of Chief J. Peter Derrenbacher. Its first foreman was Charles Klein.

Meetings were held for nearly a year in the business quarters of Chief Derrenbacher at Broadway and East Chester street. This was while the city was building an engine house on Hasbrouck avenue between Foxhall avenue and Prince street.

Used Until 1908

The Hasbrouck avenue building was used until 1908, when the company transferred to the new central fire station on East O'Reilly street where the company is at present.

The company had another name before it finally became Weiner Hose Company No. 6. On May 2, 1884 it changed its name to the Ike and Dick Hose Company No. 6 in honor of Isaac N. and Richard Weiner, and a year later in 1885, it changed to Weiner Hose Company No. 6. It received a certificate of incorporation on Feb. 3, 1888.

The company has been commended by the public for its fire-fighting record. One of its members, William H. Kolts, held the office of second assistant engineer for two years, and as chief of the fire department he installed the fire alarm system. Another member, Louis H. Kolts, was second assistant engineer for five years, a fire commissioner for 19 years,

Future Telephone Prophecy Is Given

Pasadena, Calif., April 10 (AP)—The telephone of the future?

Mark R. Sullivan, San Francisco, president and director of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., said in an address last night:

"Just what form the future telephone will take is of course, pure speculation. Here is my prophecy:

"In its final development, the telephone will be carried about by the individual, perhaps as we carry a watch today. It probably will require no dial or equivalent, and I think the users will be able to see each other, if they want, as they talk.

"Who knows but what it may actually translate from one language to another?"

PSC Hearing Is Adjourned To April 20 by Williamson

The Public Service Commission hearing on the New York Central Railroad's application to remove the last two passenger trains from its Catskill Mountain Branch was adjourned on Thursday afternoon to Monday, April 20, at 10 a. m., at the court house in Kingston.

The hearing opened Thursday morning before Hearing Examiner A. H. Williamson. From 35 to 40 persons were present during the morning and afternoon sessions.

William R. Stevens of New York, counsel for the railroad, presented his case first, reserving the right to produce additional witnesses when the hearing reconvenes. He stated that among the evidence he intends to secure will be a written contract with Lezette's Express to provide substitute service by motor truck for express and less than carload freight, if the railroad is permitted to remove its passenger trains.

In the afternoon sessions, opponents to the removal of the trains began their presentation, conducted by Attorneys Edwyn E. Mason, member of Assembly from Delaware county, and John L. Larkin, representing Senator Arthur H. Wicks and the Rotron Manufacturing Company.

Witnesses opposed to the discontinuance included Omer H. Edwards, mayor of Stamford, and

Hall Ratification Is Given By GOP National Committee

Washington, April 10 (AP) — The Republican National Committee today unanimously elected former Rep. Leonard W. Hall of New York as its national chairman.

Ratification Expected

Washington, April 10 (AP)—The Republican National Committee appeared ready to ratify today the choice by President Eisenhower and congressional leaders of former Rep. Leonard W. Hall of New York as its new chairman.

Hall got unanimous approval as a successor for C. Wesley Roberts, who resigned, in an informal canvass yeterday of Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and Senate and House leaders. The canvass was made by a GOP national subcommittee.

The 52-year-old Hall, who served several terms as chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee before he quit Congress to win election as a New York surrogate judge, takes over a party described by some of its members as financially "broke" despite its presidential election victory last fall.

In a swansong statement, Roberts predicted that the GOP will increase its slim margins in the Senate and House in the 1953 elections.

The new administration, Roberts declared, "has been handicapped in taking over actual operative control of government as a consequence of the ingenious and surreptitious devices by which the Democrats violated the concepts of civil service by packing the civil service lists, at top level, with political patronage ***"

Nevertheless, he added, "no man has ever taken command and done more in so short a space of time" as Eisenhower.

Roberts said the financial problem remains pressing, with the committee staff being forced to work in inadequate headquarters.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said one of Hall's first jobs apparently will have to be to help get a fund raising campaign under way.

"I don't think the National Committee has enough money on hand to pay all of its bills now," Taft said in an interview.

The Ohio senator, one of those who approved Hall's selection, said he hopes the new chairman picks a western man as his executive assistant. The name of Wayne Hood, Wisconsin state chairman, was mentioned by some other party members in this connection.

Hall's election seemed likely to inspire a Democratic blast at his record of voting in Congress. The New Yorker traveled on Eisenhower's presidential campaign train and is reported generally in accord with the President's views on major issues.

Roberts resigned after a Kansas legislative committee criticized his acceptance of a fee for helping to negotiate the sale of a hospital to the state. The committee said he violated the spirit of the lobbying laws.

The incident occurred long before Roberts became GOP chairman, and he had no government or party job at the time.

When the legislative report was issued, Roberts said, "a carefully contrived and thinly veiled plot" growing out of factional politics was back of it. Declaring that his conscience was clear, he said he was resigning nonetheless because he felt his usefulness as party chairman had been destroyed.

US Warns Free World To Keep Up Strength

Governor Praises New Welfare Bill

Dewey Calls Measure One of Notable Gains of Recent Session

Albany, April 10 (AP)—Gov. Dewey has approved an administration measure broadly revamping the state's welfare aid program to localities to help weed out wasteful practices.

The law will increase state aid to localities by $6,400,000, the governor said.

In signing the measure yesterday Dewey called it "one of the notable achievements of the past legislative session and a major advance in the administration of social welfare."

The law was drafted by a committee headed by Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore. When the bill was introduced Moore called it "the first and most important step toward simplification in federal, state and local relationships."

Effective January 1

The new formula will take effect next Jan. 1.

The law provides that:

1. The state and localities will share on a 50-50 basis the cost of welfare aid to the aged, the blind and dependent children after the federal government has made its contribution. Under the present system, the state and federal

Gross Says Unity and Power Basis of Shift by Soviets

United Nations, April 10 (AP)—The U. S. warned the free world against abandoning its policy of strength and unity because of conciliatory gestures from the Kremlin.

U. S. delegate Ernest A. Gross told the UN's 60-nation political committee that it was the west's very policy of strength and unity which had brought about such gestures and that eventually it would oblige the Soviet government to change its policies completely.

"Most of us feel the time will come when the Soviet government will find it necessary to modify its policy. If so it will be because of our policy of strength and unity. We must not abandon that strength," he declared.

Deplores Reintroduction

Gross deplored reintroduction of an omnibus Polish peace package and said that the UN has already rejected all major points in it. He specifically regretted the bringing up of the Korean problem here at this time.

"No resolution on Korea is necessary or desirable at this time," he declared. "We must avoid any

First Drug to Halt Fatal Black Cancer Is Revealed

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—Discovery of the first drug stopping the speedy and almost-always fatal black cancer, melanoma, was announced today.

It works only for a time. But it has banished this dread cancer in one human for at least a year, and has helped a few others.

Until now there has not been any drug or treatment, except surgery at the very earliest signs, which has had the slightest effect upon melanoma. This dark cancerous growth always starts somewhere on the skin, then spreads with distressing rapidity inside the body.

The drug is nicknamed TEPA, an abbreviation for triethylene-phosphoramede. It is a relative of a drug which improves the appearance of textiles. "Cousins" of this drug also show good effect against black cancers in mice, even apparently curing them. TEPA is an entering wedge against this form of cancer, and even better drugs may be found.

This heartening step in chemical warfare upon cancer was reported to the American Association for Cancer Research by Drs. Sydney Farber, Virginia Downing, and Majib Abu-Hydar of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation and Department of Pathology, Harvard Medical School, Boston.

Tepa has been used so far upon 17 humans with melanomas, Dr. Farber said. It temporarily knocked out the cancers in five. The other 12 were persons in whom the cancers already had

Gen. Mark Clark's United Nations command headquarters said today that names of all sick and wounded will be released as quickly as possible from Tokyo.

The announcement said:

"At the Panmunjom receiving point, a PIO (public information officer) will obtain and make immediate release of the identification of the first returnee and, insofar as possible, the first of each service or nationality and any returnee who is himself particularly newsworthy."

The Hasbrouck avenue building was used until 1908, when the company transferred to the new central fire station on East O'Reilly street where the company is at present.

The company had another name before it finally became Weiner Hose Company No. 6. On May 2, 1884 it changed its name to the Ike and Dick Hose Company No. 6 in honor of Isaac N. and Richard Weiner, and a year later in 1885, it changed to Weiner Hose Company No. 6. It received a certificate of incorporation on Feb. 3, 1888.

The company has been commended by the public for its fire-fighting record. One of its members, William H. Kolts, held the office of second assistant engineer for two years, and as chief of the fire department he installed the fire alarm system. Another member, Louis H. Kolts, was second assistant engineer for five years, a fire commissioner for 19 years,

Future Telephone Prophecy Is Given

Pasadena, Calif., April 10 (AP)—The telephone of the future?

Mark R. Sullivan, San Francisco, president and director of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., said in an address last night:

"Just what form the future telephone will take is of course, pure speculation. Here is my prophecy:

"In its final development, the telephone will be carried about by the individual, perhaps as we carry a watch today. It probably will require no dial or equivalent, and I think the users will be able to see each other, if they want, as they talk.

"Who knows but what it may actually translate from one language to another?"

Potter to Transfer To Kingston for Phone Company

Corning Office Manager Joined Firm in '13 in This City in Construction

F. CLAUDE R. POTTER

F. Claude R. Potter, manager of the Corning office of the New York Telephone Company since 1939 and now serving his second term as president of the Corning Chamber of Commerce, will be transferred May 1 to Kingston as superintendent of field operations in the commercial department of the Kingston district headquarters, the Evening Leader of Corning, has announced.

A native of Copake, near Hudson, Potter joined the New York Telephone Company in this city in 1913, where he worked for several years in the construction department both in the office and outside.

In 1920 he was transferred to the business office in Kingston as "outside representative" and was made manager of the Kingston office in 1925. In 1927 he was transferred to Albany as division commercial agent in charge of connecting company work and four years later was assigned to the Syracuse office to do the same kind of work with the central division headquarters. He came to Corning as manager in 1939.

PSC Hearing Is Adjourned To April 20 by Williamson

The Public Service Commission hearing on the New York Central Railroad's application to remove the last two passenger trains from its Catskill Mountain Branch was adjourned on Thursday afternoon to Monday, April 20, at 10 a. m., at the court house in Kingston.

The hearing opened Thursday morning before Hearing Examiner A. H. Williamson. From 35 to 40 persons were present during the morning and afternoon sessions.

William R. Stevens of New York, counsel for the railroad, presented his case first, reserving the right to produce additional witnesses when the hearing reconvenes. He stated that among the evidence he intends to secure will be a written contract with Lezette's Express to provide substitute service by motor truck for express and less than carload freight, if the railroad is permitted to remove its passenger trains.

In the afternoon sessions, opponents to the removal of the trains began their presentation, conducted by Attorneys Edwyn E. Mason, member of Assembly from Delaware county, and John L. Larkin, representing Senator Arthur H. Wicks and the Rotron Manufacturing Company.

Witnesses opposed to the discontinuance included Omer H. Edwards, mayor of Stamford, and

Hall Ratification Is Given By GOP National Committee

Washington, April 10 (AP) — The Republican National Committee today unanimously elected former Rep. Leonard W. Hall of New York as its national chairman.

Ratification Expected

Washington, April 10 (AP)—The Republican National Committee appeared ready to ratify today the choice by President Eisenhower and congressional leaders of former Rep. Leonard W. Hall of New York as its new chairman.

Hall got unanimous approval as a successor for C. Wesley Roberts, who resigned, in an informal canvass yeterday of Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and Senate and House leaders. The canvass was made by a GOP national subcommittee.

The 52-year-old Hall, who served several terms as chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee before he quit Congress to win election as a New York surrogate judge, takes over a party described by some of its members as financially "broke" despite its presidential election victory last fall.

In a swansong statement, Roberts predicted that the GOP will increase its slim margins in the Senate and House in the 1953 elections.

The new administration, Roberts declared, "has been handicapped in taking over actual operative control of government as a consequence of the ingenious and surreptitious devices by which the Democrats violated the concepts of civil service by packing the civil service lists, at top level, with political patronage ***"

Nevertheless, he added, "no man has ever taken command and done more in so short a space of time" as Eisenhower.

Roberts said the financial problem remains pressing, with the committee staff being forced to work in inadequate headquarters.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said one of Hall's first jobs apparently will have to be to help get a fund raising campaign under way.

"I don't think the National Committee has enough money on hand to pay all of its bills now," Taft said in an interview.

The Ohio senator, one of those who approved Hall's selection, said he hopes the new chairman picks a western man as his executive assistant. The name "of Wayne Hood, Wisconsin state chairman, was mentioned by some other party members in this connection.

Hall's election seemed likely to inspire a Democratic blast at his record of voting in Congress. The New Yorker traveled on Eisenhower's presidential campaign train and is reported generally in accord with the President's views on major issues.

Roberts resigned after a Kansas legislative committee criticized his acceptance of a fee for helping to negotiate the sale of a hospital to the state. The committee said he violated the spirit of the lobbying laws.

The incident occurred long before Roberts became GOP chairman, and he had no government or party job at the time.

When the legislative report was issued, Roberts said, "a carefully contrived and thinly veiled plot" growing out of factional politics was back of it. Declaring that his conscience was clear, he said he was resigning nonetheless because he felt his usefulness as party chairman had been destroyed.

US Warns Free World To Keep Up Strength

Dewey Calls Measure One of Notable Gains of Recent Session

Albany, April 10 (AP)—Gov. Dewey has approved an administration measure broadly revamping the state's welfare aid program to localities to help weed out wasteful practices.

The law will increase state aid to localities by $6,400,000, the governor said.

In signing the measure yesterday Dewey called it "one of the notable achievements of the past legislative session and a major advance in the administration of social welfare."

The law was drafted by a committee headed by Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore. When the bill was introduced Moore called it "the first and most important step toward simplification in federal, state and local relationships."

Effective January 1

The new formula will take effect next Jan. 1.

The law provides that:

1. The state and localities will share on a 50-50 basis the cost of welfare aid to the aged, the blind and dependent children after the federal government has made its contribution. Under the present system, the state and federal

Gross Says Unity and Power Basis of Shift by Soviets

United Nations, April 10 (AP)—The U. S. warned the free world against abandoning its policy of strength and unity because of conciliatory gestures from the Kremlin.

U. S. delegate Ernest A. Gross told the UN's 60-nation political committee that it was the west's very policy of strength and unity which had brought about such gestures and that eventually it would oblige the Soviet government to change its policies completely.

"Most of us feel the time will come when the Soviet government will find it necessary to modify its policy. If so it will be because of our policy of strength and unity. We must not abandon that strength," he declared.

Deplores Reintroduction

Gross deplored reintroduction of an omnibus Polish peace package and said that the UN has already rejected all major points in it. He specifically regretted the bringing up of the Korean problem here at this time.

"No resolution on Korea is necessary or desirable at this time," he declared. "We must avoid any

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—Discovery of the first drug stopping the speedy and almost-always fatal black cancer, melanoma, was announced today.

It works only for a time. But it has banished this dread cancer in one human for at least a year, and has helped a few others.

Until now there has not been any drug or treatment, except surgery at the very earliest signs, which has had the slightest effect upon melanoma. This dark cancerous growth always starts somewhere on the skin, then spreads with distressing rapidity inside the body.

The drug is nicknamed TEPA, an abbreviation for triethylene-phosphoramede. It is a relative of a drug which improves the appearance of textiles. "Cousins" of this drug also show good effect against black cancers in mice, even apparently curing them. TEPA is an entering wedge against this form of cancer, and even better drugs may be found.

This heartening step in chemical warfare upon cancer was reported to the American Association for Cancer Research by Drs. Sydney Farber, Virginia Downing, and Majib Abu-Hydar of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation and Department of Pathology, Harvard Medical School, Boston.

Tepa has been used so far upon 17 humans with melanomas, Dr. Farber said. It temporarily knocked out the cancers in five. The other 12 were persons in whom the cancers already had

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York City, April 9—Readers will be interested in remembering that two weeks ago in this column I stated: "Churchill could be a great factor in bringing the Korean War to an end. Therefore, I still believe that 1953 will see a Korean truce unless one of the satellites kicks over the apple cart."

A truce merely means cessation of fighting to ascertain if terms for peace can be arranged, but chances for peace are, of course, greatly enhanced by an armistice. If peace should come in Korea, what would it mean to the average American? Perhaps the most immediately important effect would be the loss of overtime and other extras which have come to be considered as fixed wages. Some families are already frantic, especially those with teen-age children, who claim they will be "disgraced" if the car, or television, or fur coat is taken away from them. During a truce these people, at least, will be cautious about future installment commitments.

Peace in Korea does not mean that our rearmament program will be cut down this year. Already too many families are cutting down on meats, doctors, dentists and other expenditures which the neighbors do not know about. This explains the record decline in the sale of some commodities, due, in part, to a fear of Korean peace.

Business Cycles

It certainly seems as if some manufacturers of products now sold on shaky installments will sometime be headed for trouble. As these goods are taken back and repossessed, the stores where they were purchased may buy fewer electrical appliances, furniture and fur coats. If so, this may cause manufacturers to reduce their employes and hence cause some unemployment. But it is a mistake to get frightened about this now.

Just as prosperity rolls up like a snowball when employment is increasing, the snowball quickly melts when unemployment gets under way. We are now in the first stages, with the cutting off of overtime and perhaps one shift. Deflation has already taken the place of inflation. The 53 cent dollar which I advised "buying" during 1952 is already worth more.

Depressions Appear Necessary

I dread going through another period of unemployment, but I really believe that such may someday be necessary to correct the evils of waste, inefficiency and dishonesty which develop during "good times." Unfortunately, we learn only through adversity.

Furthermore, the sooner such corrections take place, the better off we all should be. Those who now give their best to their employers will be the last to be laid off, if ever. The first to be discharged are the lazy clock watchers who, when applying for their jobs, asked: "What's the pay? How many hours? Do I get Saturdays off, and what about coffee?"

Better Chances for Youth

Young people claim that they have not the opportunities which their parents had. They talk about the "big corporations" doing all the business and supplying all the jobs, affording little chance to small business. I don't admit this to be true. There are more opportunities now than ever before for young men to go into business for themselves if they will work 10 hours a day, for six days a week, and save money, the same as I had to do.

Good salesmen are needed now more than ever. Good salesmen backed by good advertising are the life blood of every business. They need no labor unions and are always well paid. They are never found amongst the unemployed. Hence, for their hard work "pounding pavements and ringing door bells" they need not ever fear being caught by installment purchases or any financial difficulties, under any conditions. In view of the news from Korea, these salesmen should now work harder than ever. In short, I believe we may sometime suffer from unemployment, but a Korean peace need not bring this about. The free nations will still be fighting Russia's determination for world supremacy. Therefore, no one should now get panicky over the prospects for a Korean peace. We should think of our boys over there and thank God for the hopes of peace.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York City, April 9—Readers will be interested in remembering that two weeks ago in this column I stated: "Churchill could be a great factor in bringing the Korean War to an end. Therefore, I still believe that 1953 will see a Korean truce unless one of the satellites kicks over the apple cart."

A truce merely means cessation of fighting to ascertain if terms for peace can be arranged, but chances for peace are, of course, greatly enhanced by an armistice. If peace should come in Korea, what would it mean to the average American? Perhaps the most immediately important effect would be the loss of overtime and other extras which have come to be considered as fixed wages. Some families are already frantic, especially those with teen-age children, who claim they will be "disgraced" if the car, or television, or fur coat is taken away from them. During a truce these people, at least, will be cautious about future installment commitments.

Peace in Korea does not mean that our rearmament program will be cut down this year. Already too many families are cutting down on meats, doctors, dentists and other expenditures which the neighbors do not know about. This explains the record decline in the sale of some commodities, due, in part, to a fear of Korean peace.

Business Cycles

It certainly seems as if some manufacturers of products now sold on shaky installments will sometime be headed for trouble. As these goods are taken back and repossessed, the stores where they were purchased may buy fewer electrical appliances, furniture and fur coats. If so, this may cause manufacturers to reduce their employes and hence cause some unemployment. But it is a mistake to get frightened about this now.

Just as prosperity rolls up like a snowball when employment is increasing, the snowball quickly melts when unemployment gets under way. We are now in the first stages, with the cutting off of overtime and perhaps one shift. Deflation has already taken the place of inflation. The 53 cent dollar which I advised "buying" during 1952 is already worth more.

Depressions Appear Necessary

I dread going through another period of unemployment, but I really believe that such may someday be necessary to correct the evils of waste, inefficiency and dishonesty which develop during "good times." Unfortunately, we learn only through adversity.

Furthermore, the sooner such corrections take place, the better off we all should be. Those who now give their best to their employers will be the last to be laid off, if ever. The first to be discharged are the lazy clock watchers who, when applying for their jobs, asked: "What's the pay? How many hours? Do I get Saturdays off, and what about coffee?"

Better Chances for Youth

Young people claim that they have not the opportunities which their parents had. They talk about the "big corporations" doing all the business and supplying all the jobs, affording little chance to small business. I don't admit this to be true. There are more opportunities now than ever before for young men to go into business for themselves if they will work 10 hours a day, for six days a week, and save money, the same as I had to do.

Good salesmen are needed now more than ever. Good salesmen backed by good advertising are the life blood of every business. They need no labor unions and are always well paid. They are never found amongst the unemployed. Hence, for their hard work "pounding pavements and ringing door bells" they need not ever fear being caught by installment purchases or any financial difficulties, under any conditions. In view of the news from Korea, these salesmen should now work harder than ever. In short, I believe we may sometime suffer from unemployment, but a Korean peace need not bring this about. The free nations will still be fighting Russia's determination for world supremacy. Therefore, no one should now get panicky over the prospects for a Korean peace. We should think of our boys over there and thank God for the hopes of peace.

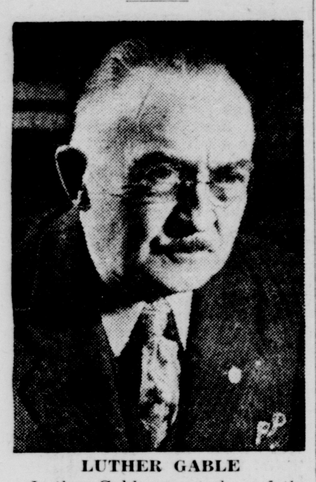
Gable to Address Kingston Dinner Club on April 20



LUTHER GABLE

Luther Gable, a member of the faculty of the American Television Institute of Technology, will address the Kingston National Dinner Club at its final meeting of the season Monday evening, April 20, it was announced today by Warren F. Smith, secretary.

The dinner, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 6:30 p. m., will complete the seventh year of the club as an informal dinner-speaker organization. Six meetings are held each season, one a month, beginning in October.

Gable will discuss the modern miracles of time, space and matter in language which the layman can understand, it was said.

In his lecture Gable is reported to give a thrilling demonstration calculated to keep the members of his audience on the edge of their chairs. With clarity and vigor he explains radar, television and nuclear fission in a manner which the average, intelligent layman can understand, doing this by means of the mysterious so-called "black light" displays. Smith pointed out that this "practical, scientific story is designed to lift the sights of the audience to the future, to new careers and to new frontiers."

5,000 Appearances

In addition to his teaching and prospecting, Gable is well known as an adventurer, author and speaker. He has made more than 5,000 appearances from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The Kingston National Dinner Club, a cultural organization, was established in 1946 by Harold R. Peat, Inc., the "Private Peat of World War 1" and in 1949 became a part of the Associated Clubs formed by Ben Franklin, an outgrowth of the Knife and Fork Clubs. Memberships are reciprocal with any other Associated Clubs in the country.

Officers of the organization are Major Thomas J. Hanlon, president; Clyde F. Gardner, vice-president; Warren F. Smith, secretary; and Ray A. White, treasurer. The office of the secretary is located at 95 John street, telephone 1819.

Smith said today that persons wishing to attend could get in touch with him. He pointed out also that memberships were now being taken for next season.

Past Members Invited

All past members of the club are invited to be guests of the organization at the meeting. The annual election of officers and directors will be held and speakers for the coming season will be chosen.

Past presidents of the club are the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, Harold V. Clayton, Alfred Schmid, Howard R. St. John and Clair S. Shaeffer.

New Rochelle Man Held on Charges Of Phony Checks

New York, April 10 (AP)—A bogus check passer, picked up on a Greenwich Village street, was carryging 256 phony checks for a total of $18,640, the FBI said today.

Identifying the prisoner as Leslie Leroy England, 53, ex-convict, of 79 Cooper Drive, New Rochelle, Leland V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, gave this account:

England, sought for passing $20,000 in fraudulent checks during the past two and a half years, was arrested last night on four complaints, filed in Wilmington, Del.; New Haven, Conn.; Raleigh, N. C., and Philadelphia. The complaints charged transporting falsely-made checks in interstate travel.

Dates to 1915

England, whose police record dates back to 1915, has cashed about 325 bogus checks in small stores in New England and the Middle Atlantic, Midwestern and Southern states.

The phony checks were signed in the names of large corporations in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Wilmington, Dayton, Ohio; Detroit, and New York, and drawn on banks in those cities. Most were in the $35-$125 range.

England, in cashing the checks, represented himself as the person to whom they were made payable by presenting a false employe identification card, made a small purchase and took the balance in cash.

Had Winning Tickets

In addition to carrying the batch of bogus checks when arrested, England also was found to have five unredeemed $5 winning tickets on the eighth race at the Jamaica racetrack here yesterday. "Our John William" paid $6 for a $2 mutuel ticket—two-to-one odds—which would have netted the holder $75 fo ra $25 bet if he had taken the trouble to cash them in.

England has served time for swindling, larceny, counterfeiting, banking law violations and confidence rackets.

The FBI did not reveal details on the checks or tell how England was caught.

FLEE MAU MAU TERROR—Huddled in an Uplands, Kenya, East Africa, police enclosure, native refugees seek safety from the Mau Mau terrorists who roam over Kenya massacring those who cooperate with the government. More than 150 persons were killed recently by the bloody terrorists in a forest area near Uplands.

Committee Says New York City Might Be Near End of Growth

New York, April 10 (AP)—New York city is in danger of soon reaching the end of its long period of rapid growth unless it promptly puts into effect a broad program of municipal improvements, the Mayor's Committee on Management Survey says.

The threatened downward trend in population does not stem from any economic decline of the city, the committee declares, but from a general dislike of "congestion, parking difficulties, noise and dirt."

"Families with children especially," a report by the committee says, "want to live where they have more room, peaceful surroundings, neighborhood schools and a place to use their automobiles."

The statements were made in the ninth and final installment yesterday of the committee's report on a three-year survey of the city's government which cost the city $2,196,250. The report was filed with Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri.

Honest Officials Needed

The report said "over-enthusiastic" estimates of population growth have been made in the past by city departments. The committee, which has recommended sweeping governmental changes and economies, declared that no amount of streamlined municipal machinery can save the city from "mediocrity and mismanagement" unless an informed public elects "honest, able and sincere officials."

The survey group also said this: If the public wants cleaner streets, it must improve its habits; "gambling will continue to be a racket problem until the town makes up its mind on gambling and then makes its laws conform. Until this is done, an intolerable burden is placed on enforcement arising from public hypocrisy." There was no amplification on this angle.

On the subject of averting a possible drop in population, the survey report said the city should extend its rapid transit facilities into outlying sections, widen slum clearance programs, and embark on a broad program of new housing and port, industrial and business development.

Other Assertions

Also included in the report were these assertions:

Between 1940 and 1950, about 600,000 left the city for suburban areas. (The population is roughly eight million.) On the basis of the 1950 census, the city has more children than in recent years and "very many" more persons past the prime of life. The city also has a larger proportion of underprivileged and low-income residents.

The city has big problems in the costliness of remedying air and harbor pollution, and the difficulty of cleaning streets that are used night and day for parking.

There is "administrative confusion and lack of consistent direction" to produce vigorous action by more than 20 city, state and federal agencies concerned.

'Operates in Vacuum'

The City Planning Commission is "operating in a vacuum" and is "seldom called upon until too late."

The welfare system is an "administrator's nightmare" and is managed "piecemeal" by the city, the state and the federal governments.

There is no "neat, simple solution" for the interlocking transit traffic, parking, transportation and fare problems. A starting point, however, would be an authority with control over the city's transit system, including the Staten Island ferry, and related facilities such as bridges.

Water waste should be brought under control. The Delaware river should be tapped further, and there should be an engineering study of the Hudson river as a water source.

Some of the survey committee's recommendations already have been put into effect by the Board of Estimate. Others will be studied by city officials.

Early Dry Cleaners

The process used in dry cleaning first was employed in France about the middle of the 18th century, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Kiwanis Speaker Next Thursday

J. ROGER DEAS

J. Roger Deas, Atlantic Division representative of American Can Company, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at noon, Thursday, April 16.

The title of Deas' talk will be: "America at the Crossroads—in Your Town."

The speaker, a past state president of the California State Junior Chamber of Commerce, has observed at close hand the teamwork within agriculture, business and industry which has provided the people of New York and America with the highest living standards in the world.

From his experience with American Can Company, he illustrates the dramatic story of industry-wide cooperation which enables New York's canning and can-making industries to distribute the products of local fields and factories throughout the nation.

Prior to joining Canco's staff, Deas was a specialist in municipal management, a member of a national banking concern, and assistant to Governor Earl Warren of California. He served as an associate consultant to the United States Delegation to the Founding Convention of the United Nations in 1945.

The National Geographic Society estimates that the crown jewels of England might be valued at 80 million dollars.

New Rochelle Man Held on Charges Of Phony Checks

New York, April 10 (AP)—A bogus check passer, picked up on a Greenwich Village street, was carrying 256 phony checks for a total of $18,640, the FBI said today.

Identifying the prisoner as Leslie Leroy England, 53, ex-convict, of 79 Cooper Drive, New Rochelle, Leland V. Boardman, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, gave this account:

England, sought for passing $20,000 in fraudulent checks during the past two and a half years, was arrested last night on four complaints, filed in Wilmington, Del.; New Haven, Conn.; Raleigh, N. C., and Philadelphia. The complaints charged transporting falsely-made checks in interstate travel.

Dates to 1915

England, whose police record dates back to 1915, has cashed about 325 bogus checks in small stores in New England and the Middle Atlantic, Midwestern and Southern states.

The phony checks were signed in the names of large corporations in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Wilmington, Dayton, Ohio; Detroit, and New York, and drawn on banks in those cities. Most were in the $35-$125 range.

England, in cashing the checks, represented himself as the person to whom they were made payable by presenting a false employe identification card, made a small purchase and took the balance in cash.

Had Winning Tickets

In addition to carrying the batch of bogus checks when arrested, England also was found to have five unredeemed $5 winning tickets on the eighth race at the Jamaica racetrack here yesterday. "Our John William" paid $6 for a $2 mutuel ticket—two-to-one odds—which would have netted the holder $75 fo ra $25 bet if he had taken the trouble to cash them in.

England has served time for swindling, larceny, counterfeiting, banking law violations and confidence rackets.

The FBI did not reveal details on the checks or tell how England was caught.

Committee Says New York City Might Be Near End of Growth

New York, April 10 (AP)—New York city is in danger of soon reaching the end of its long period of rapid growth unless it promptly puts into effect a broad program of municipal improvements, the Mayor's Committee on Management Survey says.

The threatened downward trend in population does not stem from any economic decline of the city, the committee declares, but from a general dislike of "congestion, parking difficulties, noise and dirt."

"Families with children especially," a report by the committee says, "want to live where they have more room, peaceful surroundings, neighborhood schools and a place to use their automobiles."

The statements were made in the ninth and final installment yesterday of the committee's report on a three-year survey of the city's government which cost the city $2,196,250. The report was filed with Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri.

Honest Officials Needed

The report said "over-enthusiastic" estimates of population growth have been made in the past by city departments. The committee, which has recommended sweeping governmental changes and economies, declared that no amount of streamlined municipal machinery can save the city from "mediocrity and mismanagement" unless an informed public elects "honest, able and sincere officials."

The survey group also said this: If the public wants cleaner streets, it must improve its habits; "gambling will continue to be a racket problem until the town makes up its mind on gambling and then makes its laws conform. Until this is done, an intolerable burden is placed on enforcement arising from public hypocrisy." There was no amplification on this angle.

On the subject of averting a possible drop in population, the survey report said the city should extend its rapid transit facilities into outlying sections, widen slum clearance programs, and embark on a broad program of new housing and port, industrial and business development.

Other Assertions

Also included in the report were these assertions:

Between 1940 and 1950, about 600,000 left the city for suburban areas. (The population is roughly eight million.) On the basis of the 1950 census, the city has more children than in recent years and "very many" more persons past the prime of life. The city also has a larger proportion of underprivileged and low-income residents.

The city has big problems in the costliness of remedying air and harbor pollution, and the difficulty of cleaning streets that are used night and day for parking.

There is "administrative confusion and lack of consistent direction" to produce vigorous action by more than 20 city, state and federal agencies concerned.

'Operates in Vacuum'

The City Planning Commission is "operating in a vacuum" and is "seldom called upon unfil too late."

The welfare system is an "administrator's nightmare" and is managed "piecemeal" by the city, the state and the federal governments.

There is no "neat, simple solution" for the interlocking transit traffic, parking, transportation and fare problems. A starting point, however, would be an authority with control over the city's transit system, including the Staten Island ferry, and related facilities such as bridges.

Water waste should be brought under control. The Delaware river should be tapped further, and there should be an engineering study of the Hudson river as a water source.

Some of the survey committee's recommendations already have been put into effect by the Board of Estimate. Others will be studied by city officials.

Early Dry Cleaners

The process used in dry cleaning first was employed in France about the middle of the 18th century, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Kiwanis Speaker Next Thursday

J. ROGER DEAS

J. Roger Deas, Atlantic Division representative of American Can Company, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at noon, Thursday, April 16.

The title of Deas' talk will be: "America at the Crossroads—in Your Town."

The speaker, a past state president of the California State Junior Chamber of Commerce, has observed at close hand the teamwork within agriculture, business and industry which has provided the people of New York and America with the highest living standards in the world.

From his experience with American Can Company, he illustrates the dramatic story of industry-wide cooperation which enables New York's canning and can-making industries to distribute the products of local fields and factories throughout the nation.

Prior to joining Canco's staff, Deas was a specialist in municipal management, a member of a national banking concern, and assistant to Governor Earl Warren of California. He served as an associate consultant to the United States Delegation to the Founding Convention of the United Nations in 1945.

The National Geographic Society estimates that the crown jewels of England might be valued at 80 million dollars.

PRIORITY FOR ATOMIC SECURITY

A great and continuing tumult is heard in Congress and elsewhere about the danger of Communist spies and subversives in our midst. But too little of this highly advertised concern has apparently been forcused on the security of our most supremely vital secrets—those dealing with atomic weapons.

How unfortunate this might be for all Americans can be gauged from the startling disclosures on atomic leaks just reported by Douglas Larsen, an NEA correspondent, and Doyle Kline, managing editor of the Albuquerque (N.M.) Tribune.

It is ironic that so much of the taxpayers' money is being spent in various Communist investigations without seriously probing the most critical area of all—A-bomb security.

In New Mexico are concentrated several important atomic weapons centers. Here it was that Klaus Fuchs, David Greenglass, Harry Gold and the Rosenbergs collected the information that enabled Russia to produce an A-bomb far faster than Soviet researchers themselves would have made it possible.

Of all the things Russian spies have learned from us, nothing equals in importance the secrets Fuchs and his allies stole from Los Alamos. Of all the information the Soviet Union may now pick up, nothing is so precious as the atomic data being amassed and used in New Mexico.

That is why it is so shocking to hear that a 1953 spy can gather this kind of information with great ease, simply by making a tour of bars in Albuquerque or Santa Fe, or by listening to airline passengers' casual conversation, or by making friends with the neighbors' kids.

Today the Russians don't have to plant a spy inside an atomic installation, as they did a few years back. A spy now needs only to be a good listener, a social mixer, a tireless walker—from bar to bar—and a handy man with a pencil.

Many men dealing with atomic matters understand the gravity of the problem. The question is what to do about it.

Represented in New Mexico are the Atomic Energy Commission, the Air Force, the Navy and the Army. Attempting to safeguard their secret activities are security agents from seven separate units of the federal government. And yet the secrets spill out.

Security officers say frankly that things arise which cut across the boundaries of the laws they now work under. What they need, they say, is a new law to coordinate all atomic atomic security.

That may be far from the whole answer, but it seems imperative that they should have at least that.

In the long run, it will very likely require a good deal of original thinking to figure out how to bottle up successfully the 20,000 atomic workers who are "walking dictionaries" of America's vital secrets. This is an enterprise our statesmen, lawmakers and top security men ought to give the highest priority.

Most newspaper reporters writing articles dealing with science news will be the first to admit that they are not scientists. This is as it should be, and a recent survey of men in the sciences gave the reporters a qualified vote of confidence. Half gave unqualified support, a third had some reservations and the rest were dissatisfied. It's a pretty good average, for which they may take a bow.

"Plant an apple tree, plant a dozen apple trees," is the advice of a distinguished woman columnist to new families just starting out. It's sound and pleasant counsel which will doubtless be much appreciated by newly-weds living in room and a half apartments.

Instead of taking action to make states of Alaska or Hawaii some congressmen seem more interested in creating a state of confusion.

Regardless of his weight, the man who is completely wrapped up in himself is a mighty small package.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE UNITED STATES OF EUROPE

Since the fall of the Roman Empire left Europe in disorder, constructive minds have often searched for a European unanimity of purpose and action. Charlemagne's empire might have spread out to include the whole of Europe, as it actually did include most of Western Europe. This empire fell apart.

Since Charlemagne, there have been a number of efforts to unite Europe by force, the two most notable in modern times being the empires of Napoleon and Hitler. But force does not change the minds of man, and when the use of military power lessens, the old lesions open again. The empires of both Napoleon and Hitler, having been established by military force, were destroyed by military force. After Napoleon, the peace was maintained by the Concert of Europe, but it was a 99-year peace without unity. In fact, during the 99 years of peace, nationalistic differences were emphasized. World War I put an end to that peace and in Europe articulated an unrealistic nationalism.

An effort was made through the League of Nations to establish a synthetic unity in Europe, and for that matter in all the world. This failed long before World War II because it was a political effort without either an economic or moral basis. Hitler's empire employed several methods to achieve unity—political propaganda, the elimination of population elements by mass murders, the projection of Nietzsche's ideas concerning an elite race, the Uebermensch, the Superman, the integration of all Germanic peoples into an economic state and, finally, war. Whereas Hitler might have united Europe, he failed.

The Russians tried to unify Europe under the leadership of Stalin and by the creation of a pseudo-religious movement out of Marxism. By ingenious diplomacy at Teheran and Yalta, by propaganda among the peoples and infiltration into governments, by economic unification, the absorptions of weaker nations on her borders, and by war, Russia has built one of the largest and best integrated empires in history. Yet, already there are signs that the period of growth has been arrested. Soviet Russia is standing still; her satellites are uneasy; her missionaries and agents abroad are frightened.

Meanwhile, the successor to the League of Nations, the United Nations, continues to labor for some kind of unity. The United Nations Charter is so involved a document and its methods are so complex that progress toward European unity had to be made outside it, in a series of conferences and agreements which have been astonishingly successful.

The first of these was the formation of the Benelux Customs Union in September, 1944. This is an economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It has functioned admirably. If its principles could be extended to the whole of non-Russian Europe, the advantages would be enormous.

The Economic Commission for Europe was set up in March, 1947, and included Russian satellites as well as free countries—Belgium, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom, Russia and Yugoslavia. This was too involved to be realistic.

The Dunkirk Treaty of Alliance was signed between Great Britain and France on March 4, 1947, and was followed by the Brussels Treaty of 1948 between the Benelux countries and France and Great Britain, strengthening the Benelux concept of a European customs union.

This was followed by the agreement for the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (the Marshall Plan) in Paris on April 16, 1948. This included the countries which we now term Western Europe, supported by the United States. It is to be noted that Turkey and Greece here take their places among Western countries.

On December 28, 1948, in London, the international Ruhr Authority, among Belgium, France, West Germany, Netherlands, Luxembourg, United Kingdom and the United States, was arranged, taking that area of contention out of danger to Germany and France.

Then came the North Atlantic Treaty (Washington, 1949) which established a comity among Western European countries and actually stopped the further advance of Russia in Europe. It was strengthened by the Council of Europe (1949) and the European Defense Community (1952). These latter agreements are popularly referred to as NATO.

One other step toward European unity must be referred to. This is the European Coal and Steel Community (the Schuman Plan), agreed to in 1951 and now actually functioning. This may save the economy of Western Europe.

That Body of Yours

EARLY MENTAL SYMPTOMS

In these days when many are worried about this upset world, it is natural that all of psychiatrists are busy and hundreds more could be kept busy, if we had more psychiatrists.

Psychiatry is the study of the behavior of the patient, whether he acts normal under conditions of stress or difficulty.

"It is estimated that one-third to one-half of all the patients who enter doctors' offices do so primarily for psychologic reasons; and many others complicate the diagnosis, course and treatment, as well as the outcome because of emotional problems associated with their diseases or superimposed on their diseases."

I am quoting Dr. Louis G. Moench in his book, "Office Psychiatry." Dr. Moench is Clinical Professor of Medicine and Psychiatry, University of Utah School of Medicine.

It can thus be seen that unless the physician knows the patient well, his family, surroundings, occupation, and understands his make-up or personality and tries to diagnose and treat the patient without this knowledge, he will not be able to help him much.

"Most psychotherapy (treating the mind and the emotions) should begin in the family doctor's office and most should end there." There are some cases, just a small percentage in fact, which may require the use of specialized technical skill and experience, but the great majority can be helped by the family physician."

Until recently, the family physician has been referring patients with odd behavior to the psychiatrists but, unfortunately, or, perhaps fortunately, there are not enough trained psychiatrists available and so the family doctor, who knows more about the make-up of the patient than the psychiatrist can learn in many lengthy interviews, is now seeing many of these patients first.

"The family physician is in an ideal position to help people. The patient comes to him first, often before his ideas are fixed as to the cause and nature of his distress. He usually comes of his own choice to the physician of his choice, seeking help."

The family doctor occupies a position of trust and confidence, particularly if he has presided over birth, serious illness or death in the family. He is thus in the best possible position to ask questions that are "reasonable" to the patient but would antagonize the patient if asked by a psychiatrist.

Finally, the day has long passed when a patient dislikes consulting a pyschiatrist so that if his family doctor thinks it necessary, he consults the psychiatrist as he would a surgeon or allergist.

If family doctors were first consulted in the early odd behavior cases, there would not be such a need for more psychiatrists.

"Watch the Birdie!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's promises from the Greek ship owners that they would stop shipments in their vessels to Communist countries is thrown in an entirely different light by revelations that the Department of Justice has been moving against some of these same Greek interests on another front.

Involved is the seizure of 11 out of 45 tankers which the U. S. government claims were held under a concealed Greek alien ownership, in violation of the surplus ship sales act.

Announcement of the seizures of these ships, one and two at a time, have been made by local authorities at New York, San Francisco, Wilmington, Camden and Philadelphia over the last six weeks. But the whole story has never been pieced together and its relationship to the McCarthy affair has not been apparent until now.

The point at issue is that the Greek owners of these once-surplus U. S. tankers have been under heavy pressure from the U. S. Department of Justice. As each ship has been seized, its owners have been required to post $2 million bond. It costs $1,000 a day or more to have a ship lie idle at anchor, waiting for the courts to determine its ownership.

Under these circumstances, it is considered a fair assumption that the Greek owners were more than willing to give Senator McCarthy promises that they would stop trade with Iron Curtain countries in their vessels.

To turn off some of the heat that was burning them financially through government seizure of their ships, they were willing to agree to anything. By promising not to allow any of their ships to carry goods to the Communist countries, they hoped their standing in the courts would be improved.

Wealthy Greek Family Is Involved

The principals concerned in these actions are Starvos Livanos and two of his sons-in-law, Starvos S. Niarchos and A. S. Onassis. Livanos is one of the Greek owners who has promised Senator McCarthy to stop trade with the Communists.

The Livanos are an old hereditary shipping family of Greece, little known, but fabulously wealthy. It has been claimed for Livanos and his two sons-in-law that they do not speak to each other and have not seen each other for some years. Their corporate connections, if any, are supposedly carried on through the Livanos daughters, two of whom are married to Niarchos and Onassis.

Onassis, though of Greek birth, is now reported to be a naturalized citizen of the Argentine. At one time it was reported that Onassis had bought Monte Carlo's famed gambling concession. The fabulous family is that wealthy.

Insofar as their present troubles with the U. S. government are concerned, two companys in the family's many maritime holdings are involved.

First is the North American Shipping and Trading Co., in which Starvos S. Niarchos is said to be the principal figure. Six of its tankers have thus far been seized, as follows:

Monitor, at Camden, N. J., Feb. 16; Merrimac, at Philadelphia, March 5; Memory, Wilmington, Del., March 13; Mermaid, Wilmington, March 15; Seven Seas and Jenny, both seized at San Francisco March 21.

The second company involved is U. S. Petroleum Carriers, in which A. S. Onassis is the principal figure. Five of its tankers have been seized thus far, as follows: Lake George, at Wilmington, March 18; Camp Namanu and Battle Rock, at New York, March 27; Arickaree and Stone Point, at New York, April 3.

U. S. Wants the Ships Returned

The two companies own some 34 other former surplus U. S. tankers. Some of these ships have not touched American ports for over two years. But as fast as they come into U. S. waters, it is the intention of the Department of Justice to seize the vessels and start court action to have their titles returned to the U. S. government.

In the seizures made thus far, the attitude of the two brothers-in-law has been entirely different. Onassis has cooperated with the government, advising U. S. attorneys when ships were arriving at U. S. ports. The Niarchos company, on the other hand, has made seizure difficult.

When the S. S. Monitor and the S. S. Merrimac came into Delaware Bay, for instance, they were anchored in midstream, so that they would be in New Jersey during down tide, in Pennsylvania on the uptide. This was a legal maneuver to confuse the court in exercising concurrent jurisdiction over the waters in both states.

North American Shipping and Trading Co. and U. S. Petroleum Carriers are only two of the shipping companies which the Livanos - Niarchos - Onassis family control. Both these companies are U. S. corporations, with American officers.

It is made clear that none of the tankers in these companies has been in trade with Communist countries. Such trade as the family ships have carried to Communist countries has been in other ships, operated by other companies under Greek, Panamanian or other foreign flags. In all, the family is believed to control over 200 vessels in trade all over the world.

Mystery of Conference Brings Denials, etc. as Regards Policy Toward Korea, Formosa

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 10—A first-class mystery revolving around an off-the-record conference with several newspapermen by a person in the confidence of the Eisenhower administration has stirred up a series of denials and counter-denials as to what the future policy of the United States is going to be toward a divided Korea and the status of Formosa.

First of all, it may be said that, whatever the explorations or discussions inside the administration, no conclusions have been reached. The White House denial of a New York Times story used that very language as follows:

"The administration has never reached any conclusion that a permanent division of Korea is desirable or feasible or consistent with the decisions of the United Nations."

Dispatches from Washington to the New York Times and other newspapers, which came from a responsible source who gave the information but would not allow himself to be quoted or identified—indicated that in a future negotiation the United States might be willing to let the boundary between North and South Korea be fixed at about eighty miles north of the 38th Parallel so as to take in a balance area of economic resources.

But such a division means on its face that the United States would be deserting the objective of the UN resolution of October 7, 1950, which called for an independent and unified Korea.

Why, therefore, was the idea brought forward in the discussion with the press? This is not readily explained except on one possible basis—that the man who did the talking didn't make himself clear and was merely explaining possible ways that a negotiation might be approached when the time comes for such a parley.

But even this does not disclose why it was considered necessary to explore the subject with the press at all—unless the man who did it never thought it would appear in print and was just talking out loud, so to speak, as he unfolded his thoughts confidentially to the correspondents.

What is important is not what this news source was speculating about but what the policy toward Korea finally will be. The word from the White House is that no "conclusion" has been reached. This in itself will be disquieting news. It could mean that the group inside the administration which wants to cut military spending, reduce taxes and end the war by any means possible has been making headway and that the subject matter of such discussions is very much in the minds of administration officials, so that persons informed as to what is going on naturally talk about all possibilites with no indication as to how the discussion finally will turn out.

Another important item mentioned as part of the same information conveyed to the press relates to a UN trusteeship for Formosa. This was mentioned as a compromise solution. But it is a fantastic suggestion. For it would mean that Chiang's troops would some day have to be driven out of Formosa by the UN, and this is hardly something the United States could embark upon. Also, Red China, if in supreme control of the mainland of China, isn't going to consent to an independent status for Formosa, since this territory was promised to China itself by the Cairo declaration to which the United States was a signatory.

If the two reported moves were really the American policy, it would amount to a Far Eastern Munich. Mere publication of such a possibility is bound to be harmful at this stage of the Russian peace adventure, when it isn't wise to tip our hand no matter what we have in mind. It seems incredible that John Foster Dulles would care to remain as secretary of state if his views on the Far East were reversed to the extent that the newspaper reports would indicate they might be if the "conclusion" is to adopt policies that mean appeasement of the Communists.

It is impossible, for instance, to measure exactly how many square miles of territory would remain in the hands of the North Korean Communists as a "buffer" or "puppet" state for the Communists. But it would be a big slice of Korean territory. Does anyone think South Korea could be pacified by such a move? For it would mean that aggressors would be rewarded by being ceded a large piece of territory and, if the Red Chinese were seated in the UN, it would all add up to a very remarkable victory for the Communists and a defeat for the American viewpoint.

Certainly, if anything like that happens, it will be difficult to keep a draft law on the statute books. For to send American boys abroad to be killed in such shenanigans of diplomatic trickery and appeasement would produce a major political convulsion, and somebody would have to begin writing letters of abject apology to the relatives of the 130,000 American boys who have become casualties in Korea. If to divide up Korea and give a big gift of land to the Communists is what happens after "resisting aggression" in Korea, then such slogans become double-talk.

It is gratifying to learn that the White House has not approved any such policy of appeasement as was reported to be under "consideration" or under "discussion," whatever the correct word for it really was.

Battle of the Blends Has Textile Firms Agog

By SAM DAWSON

New York, April 10 (AP)—The battle of the blends and the straights—textiles, that is, not whiskey—has the textile industry in a tizzy.

Blends are the immediate worry—with the problem of how the consumer might react if peace comes in Korea left over for the future.

When the battle is resolved, textile spokesmen think the industry may have within reach a cure for some of the ills besetting the industry in recent months—and perhaps better fabrics for consumers.

The real problem: Not which natural or synthetic fiber is best, but which one or which combination of two or more is best for a specific use by a customer.

Could Revolutionize Business

How the public reacts to the new blends to be offered next summer and fall could start a new revolution in the textile industry—some have even compared the prospect of readjustments within the industry to the revolution that came with the use of the power loom.

Right now, however, the industry is split wide with claims and counter claims. And the consumer is mostly just confused. One textile mill executive suggests a "consumer textile clinic" to test the advantages and the drawbacks of the various fibers and their blends.

New fibers and blends come out right along. But many of the synthetics are still held to comparatively small volume of use—some because adequate facilities for making them are still being built, and others because they still cost more than the natural fibers available.

Industry Split on Trend

The industry is split wide on the trend. C. M. Bishop, president of Pendleton Woolen Mills, says they'll stick to all virgin wool and have no truck witl. blends.

But Francis W. White, president of American Woolen, predicts that by 1960 all men's summer suits will be of synthetics, and winter suits will be woolen and worsted blended with man-made fibers.

Textile men are working hard to overcome the disadvantages that some synthetics have. Laundry and dry cleaning problems are being studied. The troublesome static that causes some man-made fabrics to cling to the body keeps researchers awake nights.

Conquer Dye Problems

The dye troubles are being conquered, some mills report. Celanese has color-fast celaperm. Union Carbide & Carbon is bringing out color-fast dynel and also touting its price advantage and the fact it can be blended with coarser grades of wool—which will help the wool industry. Chemstrand now has color-fast acrilan. Courtalds new plant near Mobile, Ala., boasts color-fast rayon.

Vicara's biggest year as a blending fiber is predicted by John Karrh, manager fiber division of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corp.—more of the fiber available and a wider variety of blends.

Dow Chemical, which now has an annual capacity of 50 million pounds of saran powder, predicts a big increase in its use as a blend with wool.

Pushing New Plants

Du Pont is pushing new plants to bring orlon capacity to 36 million pounds this year and dacron to 35 million pounds next year. Both are coming out this fall with new blends to give synthetics a role in all-year-round clothing use. Nylon is offering new ultra-sheer 12 denier hosiery.

And cotton mills are pointing with pride to the current fashion demand for cotton sportshirts and cotton leisure-wear trousers. They say both are pulling ahead of rayon this year. Total cotton consumption is holding fairly even with the postwar average, although below the peak.

PRIORITY FOR ATOMIC SECURITY

A great and continuing tumult is heard in Congress and elsewhere about the danger of Communist spies and subversives in our midst. But too little of this highly advertised concern has apparently been forcused on the security of our most supremely vital secrets—those dealing with atomic weapons.

How unfortunate this might be for all Americans can be gauged from the startling disclosures on atomic leaks just reported by Douglas Larsen, an NEA correspondent, and Doyle Kline, managing editor of the Albuquerque (N.M.) Tribune.

It is ironic that so much of the taxpayers' money is being spent in various Communist investigations without seriously probing the most critical area of all—A-bomb security.

In New Mexico are concentrated several important atomic weapons centers. Here it was that Klaus Fuchs, David Greenglass, Harry Gold and the Rosenbergs collected the information that enabled Russia to produce an A-bomb far faster than Soviet researchers themselves would have made it possible.

Of all the things Russian spies have learned from us, nothing equals in importance the secrets Fuchs and his allies stole from Los Alamos. Of all the information the Soviet Union may now pick up, nothing is so precious as the atomic data being amassed and used in New Mexico.

That is why it is so shocking to hear that a 1953 spy can gather this kind of information with great ease, simply by making a tour of bars in Albuquerque or Santa Fe, or by listening to airline passengers' casual conversation, or by making friends with the neighbors' kids.

Today the Russians don't have to plant a spy inside an atomic installation, as they did a few years back. A spy now needs only to be a good listener, a social mixer, a tireless walker—from bar to bar—and a handy man with a pencil.

Many men dealing with atomic matters understand the gravity of the problem. The question is what to do about it.

Represented in New Mexico are the Atomic Energy Commission, the Air Force, the Navy and the Army. Attempting to safeguard their secret activities are security agents from seven separate units of the federal government. And yet the secrets spill out.

Security officers say frankly that things arise which cut across the boundaries of the laws they now work under. What they need, they say, is a new law to coordinate all atomic atomic security.

That may be far from the whole answer, but it seems imperative that they should have at least that.

In the long run, it will very likely require a good deal of original thinking to figure out how to bottle up successfully the 20,000 atomic workers who are "walking dictionaries" of America's vital secrets. This is an enterprise our statesmen, lawmakers and top security men ought to give the highest priority.

Most newspaper reporters writing articles dealing with science news will be the first to admit that they are not scientists. This is as it should be, and a recent survey of men in the sciences gave the reporters a qualified vote of confidence. Half gave unqualified support, a third had some reservations and the rest were dissatisfied. It's a pretty good average, for which they may take a bow.

"Plant an apple tree, plant a dozen apple trees," is the advice of a distinguished woman columnist to new families just starting out. It's sound and pleasant counsel which will doubtless be much appreciated by newly-weds living in room and a half apartments.

Instead of taking action to make states of Alaska or Hawaii some congressmen seem more interested in creating a state of confusion.

Regardless of his weight, the man who is completely wrapped up in himself is a mighty small package.

'These Days'

THE UNITED STATES OF EUROPE

Since the fall of the Roman Empire left Europe in disorder, constructive minds have often searched for a European unanimity of purpose and action. Charlemagne's empire might have spread out to include the whole of Europe, as it actually did include most of Western Europe. This empire fell apart.

Since Charlemagne, there have been a number of efforts to unite Europe by force, the two most notable in modern times being the empires of Napoleon and Hitler. But force does not change the minds of man, and when the use of military power lessens, the old lesions open again. The empires of both Napoleon and Hitler, having been established by military force, were destroyed by military force. After Napoleon, the peace was maintained by the Concert of Europe, but it was a 99-year peace without unity. In fact, during the 99 years of peace, nationalistic differences were emphasized. World War I put an end to that peace and in Europe articulated an unrealistic nationalism.

An effort was made through the League of Nations to establish a synthetic unity in Europe, and for that matter in all the world. This failed long before World War II because it was a political effort without either an economic or moral basis. Hitler's empire employed several methods to achieve unity—political propaganda, the elimination of population elements by mass murders, the projection of Nietzsche's ideas concerning an elite race, the Uebermensch, the Superman, the integration of all Germanic peoples into an economic state and, finally, war. Whereas Hitler might have united Europe, he failed.

The Russians tried to unify Europe under the leadership of Stalin and by the creation of a pseudo-religious movement out of Marxism. By ingenious diplomacy at Teheran and Yalta, by propaganda among the peoples and infiltration into governments, by economic unification, the absorptions of weaker nations on her borders, and by war, Russia has built one of the largest and best integrated empires in history. Yet, already there are signs that the period of growth has been arrested. Soviet Russia is standing still; her satellites are uneasy; her missionaries and agents abroad are frightened.

Meanwhile, the successor to the League of Nations, the United Nations, continues to labor for some kind of unity. The United Nations Charter is so involved a document and its methods are so complex that progress toward European unity had to be made outside it, in a series of conferences and agreements which have been astonishingly successful.

The first of these was the formation of the Benelux Customs Union in September, 1944. This is an economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It has functioned admirably. If its principles could be extended to the whole of non-Russian Europe, the advantages would be enormous.

The Economic Commission for Europe was set up in March, 1947, and included Russian satellites as well as free countries—Belgium, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Greece, Iceland, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom, Russia and Yugoslavia. This was too involved to be realistic.

The Dunkirk Treaty of Alliance was signed between Great Britain and France on March 4, 1947, and was followed by the Brussels Treaty of 1948 between the Benelux countries and France and Great Britain, strengthening the Benelux concept of a European customs union.

This was followed by the agreement for the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (the Marshall Plan) in Paris on April 16, 1948. This included the countries which we now term Western Europe, supported by the United States. It is to be noted that Turkey and Greece here take their places among Western countries.

On December 28, 1948, in London, the international Ruhr Authority, among Belgium, France, West Germany, Netherlands, Luxembourg, United Kingdom and the United States, was arranged, taking that area of contention out of danger to Germany and France.

Then came the North Atlantic Treaty (Washington, 1949) which established a comity among Western European countries and actually stopped the further advance of Russia in Europe. It was strengthened by the Council of Europe (1949) and the European Defense Community (1952). These latter agreements are popularly referred to as NATO.

One other step toward European unity must be referred to. This is the European Coal and Steel Community (the Schuman Plan), agreed to in 1951 and now actually functioning. This may save the economy of Western Europe.

That Body of Yours

EARLY MENTAL SYMPTOMS

In these days when many are worried about this upset world, it is natural that all of psychiatrists are busy and hundreds more could be kept busy, if we had more psychiatrists.

Psychiatry is the study of the behavior of the patient, whether he acts normal under conditions of stress or difficulty.

"It is estimated that one-third to one-half of all the patients who enter doctors' offices do so primarily for psychologic reasons; and many others complicate the diagnosis, course and treatment, as well as the outcome because of emotional problems associated with their diseases or superimposed on their diseases."

I am quoting Dr. Louis G. Moench in his book, "Office Psychiatry." Dr. Moench is Clinical Professor of Medicine and Psychiatry, University of Utah School of Medicine.

It can thus be seen that unless the physician knows the patient well, his family, surroundings, occupation, and understands his make-up or personality and tries to diagnose and treat the patient without this knowledge, he will not be able to help him much.

"Most psychotherapy (treating the mind and the emotions) should begin in the family doctor's office and most should end there." There are some cases, just a small percentage in fact, which may require the use of specialized technical skill and experience, but the great majority can be helped by the family physician."

Until recently, the family physician has been referring patients with odd behavior to the psychiatrists but, unfortunately, or, perhaps fortunately, there are not enough trained psychiatrists available and so the family doctor, who knows more about the make-up of the patient than the psychiatrist can learn in many lengthy interviews, is now seeing many of these patients first.

"The family physician is in an ideal position to help people. The patient comes to him first, often before his ideas are fixed as to the cause and nature of his distress. He usually comes of his own choice to the physician of his choice, seeking help."

The family doctor occupies a position of trust and confidence, particularly if he has presided over birth, serious illness or death in the family. He is thus in the best possible position to ask questions that are "reasonable" to the patient but would antagonize the patient if asked by a psychiatrist.

Finally, the day has long passed when a patient dislikes consulting a pyschiatrist so that if his family doctor thinks it necessary, he consults the psychiatrist as he would a surgeon or allergist.

If family doctors were first consulted in the early odd behavior cases, there would not be such a need for more psychiatrists.

"Watch the Birdie!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's promises from the Greek ship owners that they would stop shipments in their vessels to Communist countries is thrown in an entirely different light by revelations that the Department of Justice has been moving against some of these same Greek interests on another front.

Involved is the seizure of 11 out of 45 tankers which the U. S. government claims were held under a concealed Greek alien ownership, in violation of the surplus ship sales act.

Announcement of the seizures of these ships, one and two at a time, have been made by local authorities at New York, San Francisco, Wilmington, Camden and Philadelphia over the last six weeks. But the whole story has never been pieced together and its relationship to the McCarthy affair has not been apparent until now.

The point at issue is that the Greek owners of these once-surplus U. S. tankers have been under heavy pressure from the U. S. Department of Justice. As each ship has been seized, its owners have been required to post $2 million bond. It costs $1,000 a day or more to have a ship lie idle at anchor, waiting for the courts to determine its ownership.

Under these circumstances, it is considered a fair assumption that the Greek owners were more than willing to give Senator McCarthy promises that they would stop trade with Iron Curtain countries in their vessels.

To turn off some of the heat that was burning them financially through government seizure of their ships, they were willing to agree to anything. By promising not to allow any of their ships to carry goods to the Communist countries, they hoped their standing in the courts would be improved.

Wealthy Greek Family Is Involved

The principals concerned in these actions are Starvos Livanos and two of his sons-in-law, Starvos S. Niarchos and A. S. Onassis. Livanos is one of the Greek owners who has promised Senator McCarthy to stop trade with the Communists.

The Livanos are an old hereditary shipping family of Greece, little known, but fabulously wealthy. It has been claimed for Livanos and his two sons-in-law that they do not speak to each other and have not seen each other for some years. Their corporate connections, if any, are supposedly carried on through the Livanos daughters, two of whom are married to Niarchos and Onassis.

Onassis, though of Greek birth, is now reported to be a naturalized citizen of the Argentine. At one time it was reported that Onassis had bought Monte Carlo's famed gambling concession. The fabulous family is that wealthy.

Insofar as their present troubles with the U. S. government are concerned, two companys in the family's many maritime holdings are involved.

First is the North American Shipping and Trading Co., in which Starvos S. Niarchos is said to be the principal figure. Six of its tankers have thus far been seized, as follows:

Monitor, at Camden, N. J., Feb. 16; Merrimac, at Philadelphia, March 5; Memory, Wilmington, Del., March 13; Mermaid, Wilmington, March 15; Seven Seas and Jenny, both seized at San Francisco March 21.

The second company involved is U. S. Petroleum Carriers, in which A. S. Onassis is the principal figure. Five of its tankers have been seized thus far, as follows: Lake George, at Wilmington, March 18; Camp Namanu and Battle Rock, at New York, March 27; Arickaree and Stone Point, at New York, April 3.

U. S. Wants the Ships Returned

The two companies own some 34 other former surplus U. S. tankers. Some of these ships have not touched American ports for over two years. But as fast as they come into U. S. waters, it is the intention of the Department of Justice to seize the vessels and start court action to have their titles returned to the U. S. government.

In the seizures made thus far, the attitude of the two brothers-in-law has been entirely different. Onassis has cooperated with the government, advising U. S. attorneys when ships were arriving at U. S. ports. The Niarchos company, on the other hand, has made seizure difficult.

When the S. S. Monitor and the S. S. Merrimac came into Delaware Bay, for instance, they were anchored in midstream, so that they would be in New Jersey during down tide, in Pennsylvania on the uptide. This was a legal maneuver to confuse the court in exercising concurrent jurisdiction over the waters in both states.

North American Shipping and Trading Co. and U. S. Petroleum Carriers are only two of the shipping companies which the Livanos - Niarchos - Onassis family control. Both these companies are U. S. corporations, with American officers.

It is made clear that none of the tankers in these companies has been in trade with Communist countries. Such trade as the family ships have carried to Communist countries has been in other ships, operated by other companies under Greek, Panamanian or other foreign flags. In all, the family is believed to control over 200 vessels in trade all over the world.

Mystery of Conference Brings Denials, etc. as Regards Policy Toward Korea, Formosa

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 10—A first-class mystery revolving around an off-the-record conference with several newspapermen by a person in the confidence of the Eisenhower administration has stirred up a series of denials and counter-denials as to what the future policy of the United States is going to be toward a divided Korea and the status of Formosa.

First of all, it may be said that, whatever the explorations or discussions inside the administration, no conclusions have been reached. The White House denial of a New York Times story used that very language as follows:

"The administration has never reached any conclusion that a permanent division of Korea is desirable or feasible or consistent with the decisions of the United Nations."

Dispatches from Washington to the New York Times and other newspapers, which came from a responsible source who gave the information but would not allow himself to be quoted or identified—indicated that in a future negotiation the United States might be willing to let the boundary between North and South Korea be fixed at about eighty miles north of the 38th Parallel so as to take in a balance area of economic resources.

But such a division means on its face that the United States would be deserting the objective of the UN resolution of October 7, 1950, which called for an independent and unified Korea.

Why, therefore, was the idea brought forward in the discussion with the press? This is not readily explained except on one possible basis—that the man who did the talking didn't make himself clear and was merely explaining possible ways that a negotiation might be approached when the time comes for such a parley.

But even this does not disclose why it was considered necessary to explore the subject with the press at all—unless the man who did it never thought it would appear in print and was just talking out loud, so to speak, as he unfolded his thoughts confidentially to the correspondents.

What is important is not what this news source was speculating about but what the policy toward Korea finally will be. The word from the White House is that no "conclusion" has been reached. This in itself will be disquieting news. It could mean that the group inside the administration which wants to cut military spending, reduce taxes and end the war by any means possible has been making headway and that the subject matter of such discussions is very much in the minds of administration officials, so that persons informed as to what is going on naturally talk about all possibilites with no indication as to how the discussion finally will turn out.

Another important item mentioned as part of the same information conveyed to the press relates to a UN trusteeship for Formosa. This was mentioned as a compromise solution. But it is a fantastic suggestion. For it would mean that Chiang's troops would some day have to be driven out of Formosa by the UN, and this is hardly something the United States could embark upon. Also, Red China, if in supreme control of the mainland of China, isn't going to consent to an independent status for Formosa, since this territory was promised to China itself by the Cairo declaration to which the United States was a signatory.

If the two reported moves were really the American policy, it would amount to a Far Eastern Munich. Mere publication of such a possibility is bound to be harmful at this stage of the Russian peace adventure, when it isn't wise to tip our hand no matter what we have in mind. It seems incredible that John Foster Dulles would care to remain as secretary of state if his views on the Far East were reversed to the extent that the newspaper reports would indicate they might be if the "conclusion" is to adopt policies that mean appeasement of the Communists.

It is impossible, for instance, to measure exactly how many square miles of territory would remain in the hands of the North Korean Communists as a "buffer" or "puppet" state for the Communists. But it would be a big slice of Korean territory. Does anyone think South Korea could be pacified by such a move? For it would mean that aggressors would be rewarded by being ceded a large piece of territory and, if the Red Chinese were seated in the UN, it would all add up to a very remarkable victory for the Communists and a defeat for the American viewpoint.

Certainly, if anything like that happens, it will be difficult to keep a draft law on the statute books. If to divide up Korea and give a big gift of land to the Communists is what happens after "resisting aggression" in Korea, then such slogans become double-talk.

It is gratifying to learn that the White House has not approved any such policy of appeasement as was reported to be under "consideration" or under "discussion," whatever the correct word for it really was.

FALLS HIGHER THAN TWO EMPIRE STATES—This first full-length picture of Angel Falls in Venezuela shows its full 3212 foot height, 15 times that of Niagara Falls and higher than two Empire State Buildings, right. SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, April 9—Alf Edmundsen, Ashokan building contractor and family are home again following a winter's sojourn at Daytona, Fla. Alf likes Florida, says he felt fine down there and hopes to return next fall.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Olive Fire Department will give a dance party Wednesday evening, April 5, in the Onteora Schoolhouse, Boiceville.

Abe Avery, old timer of the Watson Hollow sector of Olive, is reported in poor health this spring.

Teen-aged lads up at Sidney appear to have exercised considerable ingenuity in planning a recent escapade in which 12 rats, caught along the river front, were smuggled through a back door of the recreation building and released on the main floor. It was the young rascals' original idea to open the crate of rats on the second floor where an adult bridge club was holding forth. Pandemonium reigned in the building whilst the unwelcome visitors were being cornered and killed. (What next! for goodness sake).

Jesse Shurter, Samsonville War 1 veteran, was a caller in the village center Saturday. Jess, for many years a sawmill operator along the brook near the South Olive village, has bought the Brandmark stand of timber on the former Jordan farm at Brodhead.

Ashokan was a beehive of activity the latter part of the week as workmen placed the skids for moving the Ashokan railroad depot bought by Bob Haver, up the Onteora Trail to the Haver garage property. The depot structure, attractive in design and well built, was erected in waterworks days following relocation of several miles of Ulster & Delaware track. Virgil Merrihew, one time agent at the Brodhead depot on the old line, was in charge of the Ashokan station for many years.

Having a birthday Saturday, April 11, is Irving Weeks, local truckman and War 2 veteran of 8th Air Force service. Irving, 36, married Dorothy Zuvon and they have three children.

Earl Kirn of the Port Ewen area was a caller here Sunday. Earl resided as a boy on the present M. Hendrickson farm in the Coons district of Shokan. Earl, who recently quit the production end of dairying to engage in selling milk, has two fine small boys who came along with him.

Several members of the John Gikas family of New York are at their summer place in the village center this week.

Henry Gebelein has the T. Carlson bungalow all enclosed and the work of finishing off the interior rooms is now in progress. A feature of the attractive dwelling is the fireplace of yellow brick against the west wall of the building.

Dr. Lynn Derby of the Rosendale road was a professional caller in the village Monday evening. The patient was Jack Winchell, unofficial canine greeter at the corner store for the past several years.

The population of neighboring Greene county 100 years ago was 38,000 while in 1950 the figure was 28,745. Only six counties declined in population during that period and of these, Schoharie's loss was greater than Greene's. Gradual petering out of the great tanning industry probably was a leading factor in this big population drop in the mountains. Thousands of people came to the Catskills to work in the tanning, bluestone and lumbering industries. It was due to this influx that our own town of Olive was able to send 200 young men into the Union Army.

The old Barton homestead at Olive Bridge has been improved by the addition of a large veranda. Storekeeper Nelson Boice, owner of the place, reportedly did the carpentry work himself.

Robert Winchell, whom the Port Ewen correspondent reports having been home following combat infantry service in Korea, is a scion of old Olive families. The young man has the same given name as his first progenitor in this country—the Robert Winchell who settled at Dorchester, Mass., in 1630 and whose descendants came to Ashokan (or Ashokim) country in 1750. Robert's mother before marriage was Ida Shaw, Shokan resident and a great-granddaughter of the Rev. William Hill, an early Methodist preacher here.

Mrs. William J. Loos of Inwood, accompanied by her three daughters and a friend, Ruby Moran, are spending a few days at the Loos bungalow on the Ridge Road.

Having a birthday Sunday, April 12 is Eugene McGowan, well known Onteora Trail resident. Gene came here from New York in 1946. He has served on the local election board, is married and has a daughter, Vera (Mrs. Harold Wilkins), and two grandsons living here.

FALLS HIGHER THAN TWO EMPIRE STATES—This first full-length picture of Angel Falls in Venezuela shows its full 3212 foot height, 15 times that of Niagara Falls and higher than two Empire State Buildings, right. SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, April 9—Alf Edmundsen, Ashokan building contractor and family are home again following a winter's sojourn at Daytona, Fla. Alf likes Florida, says he felt fine down there and hopes to return next fall.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Olive Fire Department will give a dance party Wednesday evening, April 5, in the Onteora Schoolhouse, Boiceville.

Abe Avery, old timer of the Watson Hollow sector of Olive, is reported in poor health this spring.

Teen-aged lads up at Sidney appear to have exercised considerable ingenuity in planning a recent escapade in which 12 rats, caught along the river front, were smuggled through a back door of the recreation building and released on the main floor. It was the young rascals' original idea to open the crate of rats on the second floor where an adult bridge club was holding forth. Pandemonium reigned in the building whilst the unwelcome visitors were being cornered and killed. (What next! for goodness sake).

Jesse Shurter, Samsonville War I veteran, was a caller in the village center Saturday. Jess, for many years a sawmill operator along the brook near the South Olive village, has bought the Brandmark stand of timber on the former Jordan farm at Brodhead.

Ashokan was a beehive of activity the latter part of the week as workmen placed the skids for moving the Ashokan railroad depot bought by Bob Haver, up the Onteora Trail to the Haver garage property. The depot structure, attractive in design and well built, was erected in waterworks days following relocation of several miles of Ulster & Delaware track. Virgil Merrihew, one time agent at the Brodhead depot on the old line, was in charge of the Ashokan station for many years.

Having a birthday Saturday, April 11, is Irving Weeks, local truckman and War 2 veteran of 8th Air Force service. Irving, 36, married Dorothy Zuvon and they have three children.

Earl Kirn of the Port Ewen area was a caller here Sunday. Earl resided as a boy on the present M. Hendrickson farm in the Coons district of Shokan. Earl, who recently quit the production end of dairying to engage in selling milk, has two fine small boys who came along with him.

Several members of the John Gikas family of New York are at their summer place in the village center this week.

Henry Gebelein has the T. Carlson bungalow all enclosed and the work of finishing off the interior rooms is now in progress. A feature of the attractive dwelling is the fireplace of yellow brick against the west wall of the building.

Dr. Lynn Derby of the Rosendale road was a professional caller in the village Monday evening. The patient was Jack Winchell, unofficial canine greeter at the corner store for the past several years.

The population of neighboring Greene county 100 years ago was 38,000 while in 1950 the figure was 28,745. Only six counties declined in population during that period and of these, Schoharie's loss was greater than Greene's. Gradual petering out of the great tanning industry probably was a leading factor in this big population drop in the mountains. Thousands of people came to the Catskills to work in the tanning, bluestone and lumbering industries. It was due to this influx that our own town of Olive was able to send 200 young men into the Union Army.

The old Barton homestead at Olive Bridge has been improved by the addition of a large veranda. Storekeeper Nelson Boice, owner of the place, reportedly did the carpentry work himself.

Robert Winchell, whom the Port Ewen correspondent reports having been home following combat infantry service in Korea, is a scion of old Olive families. The young man has the same given name as his first progenitor in this country—the Robert Winchell who settled at Dorchester, Mass., in 1630 and whose descendants came to Ashokan (or Ashokim) country in 1750. Robert's mother before marriage was Ida Shaw, Shokan resident and a great-granddaughter of the Rev. William Hill, an early Methodist preacher here.

Mrs. William J. Loos of Inwood, accompanied by her three daughters and a friend, Ruby Moran, are spending a few days at the Loos bungalow on the Ridge Road.

Having a birthday Sunday, April 12 is Eugene McGowan, well known Onteora Trail resident. Gene came here from New York in 1946. He has served on the local election board, is married and has a daughter, Vera (Mrs. Harold Wilkins), and two grandsons living here.

Albany, April 10 (AP)—The State Board of Equalization and Assessment will conduct its annual training school for local assessors April 22 to 24 in Rochester. Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, board chairman, said today city, town and village assessors and town supervisors would attend.

South Carolina's coastal plain is called the "low country" and its piedmont the "high country."

Clause Is Deleted

Albany, April 10 (AP)—A pioneer law in New York state has stricken a "whites-only" membership clause from the state charter of the Knights of Pythias. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey yesterday signed the state Legislature's first bill to scrap a discriminatory practice by a social organization. The law directs the state Pythians to "omit any reference to race, creed, color or national origin as a condition precedent to membership." The 56,000-member state lodge in 1950 asked the national organization to strike the word "white" from its membership application. After the supreme lodge refused, the state members withheld per capita dues. Both Houses of the Legislature now are controlled by Republicans.

You have the same evidence that was available to North. As you can see, the spade finesse was wrong, the club finesse was wrong, and West did make a fine defensive play. Nevertheless, Joe would have made his contract if he had played the hand properly. Do you see how?

South can do nothing about the first trick. When East leads the eight of spades at the second trick, however, South should not play the queen. Instead he should finesse the nine!

This play limits the defenders to three spade tricks no matter what they do. South can well afford to lose three spades and a club. His actual play gave the opponents a total of four spades and a club—and South could not afford that.

Student-Teacher Campus Program Viewed by Parent

New Paltz, April 10—This is the second of two articles, written by a parent member of the Parent Faculty Organization, concerning the student-teaching set-up at the Campus Elementary School. Last week, the three steps that the prospective teacher must pass successfully, those of observation, participation and student teaching were discussed.

The careful supervision of the student teacher and the requirements he must meet also were described. It was found that while the chance to watch and work with children is of absolute necessity to the future teacher, Campus School children also gain from the contacts. Contributions by student teachers and participants go a long way toward brightening and stimulating class work.

Fewer Placed Here

As far as the Campus School is concerned, most of the college students working with the children are in the first two stages of training—observation and participation. About 450 students have been involved in this work at different times this term. In comparison, there are only eight full-time student teachers. Last year there were 17 assigned to the Campus School and the number was larger than that in the past.

Eighty-eight students are engaged in full-time student teaching this year, but most are placed in cooperating schools in the southern section of the state.

Future plans for the Campus School call for providing more opportunities for observation and participation and reducing full-time student trainees to a minimum. This is in line with the practice at "demonstration schools" connected with teachers colleges all over the country.

It is more efficient to place student teachers off-campus for their term of teaching than to provide "off-campus participation" opportunities. The latter is difficult to arrange outside the village and still meet class schedules at the college.

No regular teacher works with more than two types of trainees at the Campus School. Acceptance of a full-time student teacher is purely voluntary on the part of the regular teacher.

An interesting aspect of the new policy to increase opportunities for observation here is the plan to construct some "observation rooms." These rooms would have special glass walls allowing one-way vision. Student observers could watch classroom activities without being themselves observed by the children.

Such rooms have been in use for many years at the New Jersey State Teachers College in Paterson and at Queens College in New York city. It is hoped that this device may be installed here sometime in the near future. Parents also may find it helpful for occasional views of the classroom without making their own child self-conscious.

Aid in Reading Program

This year a new and exciting development of student work at the Campus School has been started under Dr. George Bond, reading specialist. Last term, a group of college seniors, all of whom had already completed successfully their terms of student teaching, volunteered to tutor children needing reading assistance.

Each of the students spent three hours a week with an individual child. In addition, they met one hour a week with Dr. Bond, discussing modern reading techniques and ways of evaluating a child's reading progress in terms of his ability.

By mid-year, the seven children who were tutored in this manner had made good progress. Because of its success, the program was expanded this semester. There are now 17 students, 15 seniors and two juniors, who are giving individual tutoring to specially selected children and to two groups of eighth graders.

Children who would seem to benefit by the tutoring are selected from grades three to seven. Eighth grade groups are given special instruction in reading for more speed, more understanding and to adapt them for the heavier reading requirements they will meet in high school.

Dr. Bond emphasized that the children who are given special tutoring are not slow learners; they are all capable, normal pupils. However, he explained, learning to read is a complex process, and in spite of good classroom teaching, some children encounter difficulties.

Research in this field has revealed that fully 10 to 15 per cent of all children do not read up to the level of their ability. One seventh grader at the Campus School who was reading at fifth grade level has now, under special tutoring, reached seventh grade level. He will be assisted in reaching a year ahead of his grade, however, since his achievement record shows he is capable of that.

This special work is given in addition to the regular reading periods in the class. Dr. Bond believes that the results have been such that even where classroom reading instruction is outstandingly good, there will still be a need for the special individual program. he expects that it will be continued.

The experiences of the college students who participate in this program will be of invaluable assistance in their later careers, Dr. Bond added.

Comparison With Past

A survey of the present student teaching system calls for a look at the major changes which have taken place here, both in teacher training and the instruction of children in the last 25 to 30 years. One retired faculty member recalls that when she came to New Paltz in 1925, fresh out of a teachers college in the midwest, the program was entirely different from what it is now.

During that period, the regular teachers were not in charge of an individual class but acted as grade supervisors of two or three grades at once. The actual instruction was given entirely by students. A classroom would be visited by several students a day who taught, in succession, arithmetic, reading, writing, geography, history and so forth.

The lack of a single teacher able to devote full time to the class and become familiar with the individual child's personality and needs created many emotional difficulties among the children. These problems were often solved by the piece of hose kept in the principal's office. Parents had trouble finding out what specific situations were the cause of the difficulties.

Parents Can Help

Today, a parent has available many ways of keeping in touch with his child's progress. Through the written reports sent home, regular conferences with the teacher, classroom visits and participation in the Parent Faculty Organization, the parent has full opportunity to become familiar with the way his child spends the major part of his day. Indeed, he is urged to do so, so that school and home may work together as a team to insure the child's best welfare.

A New Paltz college student, impressed by the cooperation of parents and teachers here, may well carry with him the zeal to achieve that cooperation wherever he goes as a full-fledged teacher.

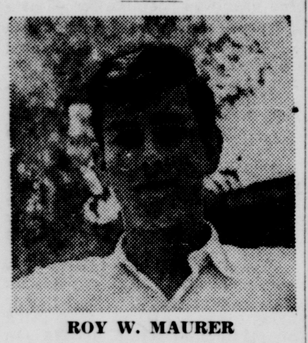
Reward Is Offered In Wide Search For Roy Maurer



ROY W. MAURER

A two hundred and fifty dollar reward has been offered for information leading to the location of 16-year-old Roy W. Maurer, who has been missing from his home, in Ridgewood, N. J., for the past six weeks.

Young Maurer, who is the son of the sales manager of a nationally known distillery company in New York, left his home on Feb. 23 apparently because of difficulty he had with the local traffic police, requiring his appearance in court.

A nation-wide search, which has been conducted to ascertain the whereabouts of missing Roy, has so far been unsuccessful. With the mother recently returned from the hospital after undergoing a serious operation, and the father pressed by business affairs as well as the worry of his son's disappearance, the strain on both parents has been extremely severe.

Presently, a search is being conducted among Armed Service induction centers on the theory that the young man has enlisted in the armed services—although in doing so he would have to misstate his age.

However, inasmuch as he is extremely adept with things electrical and mechanical, and is well-read and well-spoken and displays great self-confidence, it is thought that perhaps he might have sought employment in a radio or television shop or some factory doing electrical work, or in an automobile repair shop or gas station or some enterprise relating to things automotive. He also has had some experience as a short order cook, and may have taken such a job.

The boy's full name is Roy Wilton Maurer, and his birth date is December 14th, 1936. He is rather large for his age; and well set-up, being 5 feet 9 inches and weighs approximately 145 pounds.

He has excellent appearance, with very dark brown hair usually worn parted on the left-side, dark brown eyes and heavy dark eyebrows and clear complexion.

His only identifying mark is an appendectomy scar.

When last seen Roy was wearing a double-breasted medium gray flannel suit, with a John Wanamaker label, also with the name R. W. Maurer on the label. He wore a tan gabardine topcoat carrying a Saks Fifth Avenue label and black shoes, size approximately 10—also carrying a Saks Fifth Avenue label. He may be wearing a silver identification bracelet carrying the name Roy Wilton Maurer and may be carrying a Gladstone bag of light tan cowhide, zipper type, with the initials R.W.M.

Anyone having any information concerning this young man should telephone, collect, to his father: R. W. Maurer, at his office WOrth 4-3000 in New York—or at his home, Ridgewood, N. J. 6-4892; or to Philip Lukin, a close friend and business associate of Mr. Maurer—at his office MUrray Hill 9-7100, or at home ATwater 9-2606.

The reward of $250 will be paid to the first person supplying information which leads to the location of the missing young man.

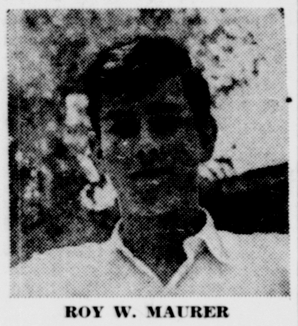
Reward Is Offered In Wide Search For Roy Maurer



ROY W. MAURER

A two hundred and fifty dollar reward has been offered for information leading to the location of 16-year-old Roy W. Maurer, who has been missing from his home, in Ridgewood, N. J., for the past six weeks.

Young Maurer, who is the son of the sales manager of a nationally known distillery company in New York, left his home on Feb. 23 apparently because of difficulty he had with the local traffic police, requiring his appearance in court.

A nation-wide search, which has been conducted to ascertain the whereabouts of missing Roy, has so far been unsuccessful. With the mother recently returned from the hospital after undergoing a serious operation, and the father pressed by business affairs as well as the worry of his son's disappearance, the strain on both parents has been extremely severe.

Presently, a search is being conducted among Armed Service induction centers on the theory that the young man has enlisted in the armed services—although in doing so he would have to misstate his age.

However, inasmuch as he is extremely adept with things electrical and mechanical, and is well-read and well-spoken and displays great self-confidence, it is thought that perhaps he might have sought employment in a radio or television shop or some factory doing electrical work, or in an automobile repair shop or gas station or some enterprise relating to things automotive. He also has had some experience as a short order cook, and may have taken such a job.

The boy's full name is Roy Wilton Maurer, and his birth date is December 14th, 1936. He is rather large for his age; and well set-up, being 5 feet 9 inches and weighs approximately 145 pounds.

He has excellent appearance, with very dark brown hair usually worn parted on the left-side, dark brown eyes and heavy dark eyebrows and clear complexion.

His only identifying mark is an appendectomy scar.

When last seen Roy was wearing a double-breasted medium gray flannel suit, with a John Wanamaker label, also with the name R. W. Maurer on the label. He wore a tan gabardine topcoat carrying a Saks Fifth Avenue label and black shoes, size approximately 10—also carrying a Saks Fifth Avenue label. He may be wearing a silver identification bracelet carrying the name Roy Wilton Maurer and may be carrying a Gladstone bag of light tan cowhide, zipper type, with the initials R.W.M.

Anyone having any information concerning this young man should telephone, collect, to his father: R. W. Maurer, at his office WOrth 4-3000 in New York—or at his home, Ridgewood, N. J. 6-4892; or to Philip Lukin, a close friend and business associate of Mr. Maurer—at his office MUrray Hill 9-7100, or at home ATwater 9-2606.

The reward of $250 will be paid to the first person supplying information which leads to the location of the missing young man.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Seth Lippincott of Wallkill, Weed was granted an adjournment until April 15 to obtain counsel and a formal plea of innocent was entered.

No personal injuries were reported. Troopers said Weed's automobile was more extensively damaged than was the DuBois car.

Two Bridges . . .

change in the Lake Katrine area.

Temporary Interchange

The authority plans to build a temporary interchange where the express highways joins the Onteora Trail (Route 28) until completion of the regular interchange system and opening of the express highway south of the city.

This, the mayor stressed, would create a traffic bottleneck at the Washington avenue viaduct and cause a heavy flow of traffic over narrow uptown streets.

The mayor indicated today that he foresaw elimination of the Washington avenue viaduct sometime in the future, but not at an early date. It could certainly not be early enough to help solve the problem of a temporary thruway interchange at Route 28, he said.

Not Ready for Bids

A. R. Erskine, thruway engineer at Poughkeepsie, said today that plans for the strip extending southward from Whiteport were not ready for the asking of bids.

Bids will be called for, probably early in May for the start of work on the section extending northward from Newburgh.

The high bridge in the LeFever Falls area will cross the Rondout near a small island in the creek. The one over the Wallkill within the next two miles southward will span the river and Route 213 near it and at a point close to the old wooden bridge. Route 32 will also be crossed near Whiteport and south of Rosendale.

New Crisis . . .

terms should be insisted upon for a peace settlement—as opposed to a military truce? The official United Nations policy is to seek unification of all Korea. It seems likely that initially the U. S. would go into negotiations maintaining that policy. But if the Reds will have none of it, some responsible persons believe this country could and should consider a more limited territory for the anti-Communist government of South Korea.

Boundary Across Waist

What has been at least informally talked about in this regard is a boundary across the narrow waist of the peninsula. This would leave a small buffer zone, or Communist Korean state, on an estimated 15 per cent of Korean territory.

Some authorities feel the Reds might eventually take such an arrangement—but at what price no one here knows. It should give South Korea enough area to exist economically, they say, although falling short of the avowed aim of Syngman Rhee's government to rule the whole peninsula.

Authorities point out that the men in the Kremlin are well aware of differences between the allies on Far Eastern issues and may well hope an end to the Korean fighting would mean the beginning of diplomatic troubles among the western nations.

First Drug . . .

spread to internal organs.

One man had large growths on his face and head, and would have lived only two months. Within three months, TEPA abolished his cancers. There was no sign that he had any cancer. For nine months he was perfectly well, without getting any more drug, and returned to work. But a bit more than a year after the treatment was started, the seeds of cancer in his body flared up again, and he has generalized melanoma.

Work on mice indicates that TEPA might entirely abolish human melanomas if they were caught very early, said Dr. Farber. Melanomas account for about three per cent of all cancer deaths.

TEPA was developed by scientists of the Calco Chemical Division, American Cyanamid Company, and first was tried against leukemia, the cancer of the blood. It has little effect against acute leukemia, but by happy accident it was tried upon melanoma.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said today he recently received a letter from Holland thanking him and the people of Kingston for contributions in behalf of recent flood victims in the low country.

The letter dated March 23, and signed by Baron van Heeckeren van Molecaten, private secretary to Queen Juliana, said:

"Her Majesty the Queen of the Netherlands instructed me to convey to you her sincerest thanks for your kind letter of Feb. 25, 1953, and the enclosed check for $5,242.52 representing the contributions of the people of Kingston and the surrounding hamlets of Ulster county, towards the needs of victims of the flood.

Industrial Group Adopts By-Laws; Election April 20

The Kingston Industrial Development Corporation has now been officially created. The board of directors will meet Monday night, April 20, to elect officers and adopt general policies of operation.

The by-laws of the corporation were adopted at a meeting of subscribers at the County Court House Thursday night at which temporary chairman Robert M. Peebles presided. Louis G. Bruhn, chairman of the committee on by-laws, presented the proposed draft. They were unanimously adopted.

The subscribers also approved the procedure for electing the term of office for the 12 directors. Three will serve for three years, three for two and three for one year. The designations for term of office will be made at the April 20 meeting.

Policies Proposed

Lawrence J. MacAvery presented a proposed set of policies under which the Industrial Development Corporation might function for the information of the subscribers.

Peebles reported briefly on two directors' meetings held previously saying that preliminary steps have already been taken to study the operations of several industrial development corporations. "Our new organization will proceed cautiously and still adopt a sound program of action at the earliest possible date," Peebles said.

Albert Kurdt, temporary secretary of the board added, "All subscribers and citizens should now be on the look-out for industrial prospects and pass along to the Chamber or the directors of the Industrial Development Corporation the names of all firms seeking new or additional facilities in the Hudson Valley area." "Industrial re-location is a complicated problem, but Kingston is now well organized and in a position to aggressively help any industry employing mostly men, in meeting its requirements in this area," Kurdt concluded.

'Wayward Minor' Tag Placed Upon Diane

Rochester, April 10 (AP)—A judge pinned a "wayward minor" tag today on 16-year-old Diane Marie Weggland, who accompanied Fred McManus on the cross-country trip on which he killed five persons.

After a hearing, Judge Thomas J. Meagher of Monroe county Children's Court sent the blonde bobby soxer back to the county jail until April 17, when he will announce whether she will be placed in a reformatory.

Diane, child of a broken home and ward of the Monroe Welfare Department, was brought here last night from Canandaigua, where Ontario county authorities had questioned her about her sweetheart's crime jaunt from Rochester to the midwest.

McManus, 18-year-old marine from Valley Stream, is undergoing mental tests at Willard State Hospital.

Killed Five Persons

He has said he killed five persons to get an auto and money so that he and Diane could marry. The two teen-agers were taken into custody in Dubuque, Iowa, March 31.

McManus is charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of William Allan Braverman, 19, of Rochester, whose car he stole.

Braverman was the first victim. The others were George Bloomberg, 56, and his wife, Florence, 55, in Illinois, and Mrs. David Beaston, 43, and Harriet Horsman, 48, in Minnesota.

Meagher said he could place Diane on probation, or order her confined indefinitely to Westfield State Farms, Bedford Hills, a reformatory for women between the ages of 16 and 30.

JobPlacementsAre Higher Than in '52

Placements reported by the New York State Employment Service Kingston office and its Saugerties and Ellenville branches during March were 22 per cent over those made the same month last year, according to the monthly summary released today.

The local offices and its branches placed 405 persons in jobs during March, 1953, compared to 332 placements in March 1952. The gain is attributed to greater use of the employment service by local employers.

Manufacturing industries continued to be the largest source of job openings, accounting for 205 of the total. Service accounted for an additional 113, wholesale and retail trade for 55, agriculture for 10, and the balance of the placements were in public utilities, finance, insurance, and government establishments.

The government moved for dismissal of the charge Wednesday and U. S. Commissioner Isaac Platt granted the motion.

Newburgh Gets Survey's Trophy

Newburgh, April 10 (AP)—The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey today presented a trophy to Newburgh for developing better city government at lower cost.

The private taxpayers' group cited Newburgh as a model for other New York communities. The National Municipal League recently named Newburgh "the All-American City."

In a talk prepared for a presentation luncheon, Survey President Garth A. Shoemaker said, "I am deeply impressed with the budget reduction of nearly $200,000 from 1951 to 1952; with the fact that final 1952 expenses undercut the budget by $83,000, and with your 1953 budget, which is $173,000 below the 1951 budget."

"All this was accomplished," Shoemaker said, "while the city was making important management improvements and improving services to the people of Newburgh."

Republican Mayor Herbert A. Warden and Robert Hinsdale, chairman of the Newburgh Tax Commission, accepted the trophy.

The commission, a private citizens group, "is not resting on any laurels," Hinsdale said.

City Manager Robert P. Aex said that "continuance of the Newburgh program can be assured only through the active support of a citizen group."

Dunkel Is Fined

West Warwick, R. I., April 10 (AP)—Clifford A. Dunkel, 20, of Lake Hill, N. Y., was fined $2 today on a reveling charge in District Court, but his sharp tongue had cost him a night in jail. When he was arraigned yesterday, the sailor was asked by the judge what his parents would think if they knew he had been drinking. "That's my business," he replied. "It's also mine!" said Judge W. Leighton, who then ordered Dunkel held in jail overnight.

Governor Praises

governments underwrite 80 per cent and the localities pay 20 per cent of the costs.

2. The state will pay 50 per cent of the cost of home relief instead of the present 80 per cent, and will pay the full 80 per cent for all persons on home relief above 1 per cent of a locality's population. The federal government does not participate in this program.

3. State aid will be extended on a 50-50 basis to the care of dependent children in foster homes and children's institutions, to hospital care for home-relief cases, to county homes and infirmaries, to shelter care for the homeless and to certain administrative expenses.

Will Double TB Aid

Dewey said this provision would "remove any incentive to place welfare applicants in reimbursable categories, purely because of the state aid factor."

4. State aid for tuberculosis care will be doubled to $5 a day per patient.

Dewey also signed a bill that allows the State Housing Authority to raise rents in limited income housing projects in proportion to the ability to pay when removal proceedings are pending against tenants whose incomes would make them ineligible to live in the project.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 10 (AP)—The stock market drifted lower today—the second declining session after two days of advancing prices.

All areas of the market were covered by the fall. The decline went to around a point at the outside in key areas. Plus signs were small in the light trading.

Definitely lower were railroads, steels, motors, aircrafts, and oils. Utilities were unchanged to higher.

Pepsi-Cola, yesterday's most active issue with a gain of ⅞ at 14⅜, was down a fraction today but without any pronounced activity.

Says Spy Ring Broken

Bonn, Germany, April 10 (AP)—Vice Chancellor Franz Bluecher announced today the smashing of a widespread Soviet spy ring in Western Germany. He said it was directed by Russian army officers at Soviet headquarters in East Berlin and specialized in industrial espionage in the vital Ruhr valley. Bluecher said more than 35 persons—all Germans—had been arrested and more will be jailed. He termed the ring "the largest Soviet secret organization uncovered in Western Germany since the beginning of the occupation in 1945."

Starzel Lauds AP For '52 'Triumphs'

New York, April 10 (AP)—Frank J. Starzel, general manager of The Associated Press, said today that 1952 was a year of "outstanding triumphs" for the AP.

In his annual report to the news cooperative's newspaper and radio membership, Starzel said the year was "notable for climactic accomplishment" of long term projects. The report was mailed to members in advance of the annual meeting here April 20.

Starzel said the year's accomplishments included:

Development of new techniques in national election coverage;

Mechanization, by means of radioteletype, of international communications which enables the AP to deliver and receive quickly news and pictures to and from distant parts of the world;

Conversion to teletypsetter operation of all state single circuits and some trunk circuits. For many years news was transmitted on printers in capital letters. On teletypsetter, the news is printed just as typewritten copy appears with capitals and small letters.

Also, teletypesetter tape may be converted automatically into type at newspaper plants.

Polls of Delegates

The 1952 presidential campaign coverage included polls of delegates to the national conventions to determine delegate preferences and included also state-by-state political surveys. The latter based on composite estimates by newspaper and radio editors and political reporters, attempted to show political trends.

Discussing the AP's worldwide communications, Starzel said newspapers and radio stations in Latin America received by teleprinter a news report "that in speed, volume and scope compared with the news service received by domestic members." The teleprinter is actuated by radio impulse.

"This followed a similar development of AP facilities to the Far Pacific the previous year," he said. "Thus dispatches now flow into Tokyo, Manila, Singapore, Santiago, Chile, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro in full printer text. * * * The volume of news has increased from some 15,000 words to more than 40,000 words daily.

To All Parts of World

"News pictures followed in the path of the news to the same areas, completing the network of daily, regularly filed wirephoto-radiophoto service to all parts of the world."

More than 900 newspapers received their news reports in 1952 on teletypsetter circuits. Of these, more than 200 received the main trunk wire report by teletypsetter wires. Some received their full financial report and major league box score service by this means.

During the year, the AP sports department instituted, Starzel said, "one of its most ambitious projects—setting up a major league baseball statistical service to supply up-to-the-minute records in batting and pitching direct by wire."

Domestic newspaper membership during the year totaled 1,725 and radio membership 1,185. Outside the United States, the AP served 3,138 newspapers, radio stations and publications in 69 countries.

US Warns . . .

action which might jeopardize the talks at Panmunjom."

Gross said a speech by Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky yesterday—which caused considerable confusion—proved how futile and unhelpful it was to debate these issues now.

Taking note of the Polish proposal's demand for an immediate Korean cease-fire, Gross repeated the western stand that there can be no cease-fire in that war torn land if it is based on the forcible repatriation of unwilling prisoners of war.

He said there was hope an exchange of sick and wounded would soon take place and urged that nothing be allowed to interfere with the progress of the Panmunjom talks.

Considerable Hope

Gross pointed out that there had been considerable hope in some quarters recently that the Soviet Union was now prepared to negotiate seriously on arms reduction. He said Vishinsky's speech had showed the Kremlin had reverted to its old ideas "which would scuttle talks."

As for Vishinsky's demand that the west abandon the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Gross said this was not a serious proposal and need not be taken seriously. Gross declared "everything we are doing in NATO is aimed at the preservation of peace."

He said the NATO countries were merely building the "minimum forces required for protection against attack." Gross said this was a duty and we "reaffirm that duty today in this solemn assembly."

Gross said the U. S. felt Russia's demand for a new peace pact among the Big Five powers—France, Britain, Rusia, and U. S. and China—was necessary since the charter of the UN itself represented such a pact.

"There is no need for a new pact," he declared. "The need is for compliance by the Soviet government with existing charter obligations."

Gross said Russian actions since World War II had destroyed the confidence of the world and said "our confidence will be restored when they honor existing obligations."

Two Bridges . . .

Temporary Interchange

The authority plans to build a temporary interchange where the express highways joins the Onteora Trail (Route 28) until completion of the regular interchange system and opening of the express highway south of the city.

This, the mayor stressed, would create a traffic bottleneck at the Washington avenue viaduct and cause a heavy flow of traffic over narrow uptown streets.

The mayor indicated today that he foresaw elimination of the Washington avenue viaduct sometime in the future, but not at an early date. It could certainly not be early enough to help solve the problem of a temporary thruway interchange at Route 28, he said.

Not Ready for Bids

A. R. Erskine, thruway engineer at Poughkeepsie, said today that plans for the strip extending southward from Whiteport were not ready for the asking of bids.

Bids will be called for, probably early in May for the start of work on the section extending northward from Newburgh.

The high bridge in the LeFever Falls area will cross the Rondout near a small island in the creek. The one over the Wallkill within the next two miles southward will span the river and Route 213 near it and at a point close to the old wooden bridge. Route 32 will also be crossed near Whiteport and south of Rosendale.

New Crisis . . .

terms should be insisted upon for a peace settlement—as opposed to a military truce? The official United Nations policy is to seek unification of all Korea. It seems likely that initially the U. S. would go into negotiations maintaining that policy. But if the Reds will have none of it, some responsible persons believe this country could and should consider a more limited territory for the anti-Communist government of South Korea.

Boundary Across Waist

What has been at least informally talked about in this regard is a boundary across the narrow waist of the peninsula. This would leave a small buffer zone, or Communist Korean state, on an estimated 15 per cent of Korean territory.

Some authorities feel the Reds might eventually take such an arrangement—but at what price no one here knows. It should give South Korea enough area to exist economically, they say, although falling short of the avowed aim of Syngman Rhee's government to rule the whole peninsula.

Authorities point out that the men in the Kremlin are well aware of differences between the allies on Far Eastern issues and may well hope an end to the Korean fighting would mean the beginning of diplomatic troubles among the western nations.

First Drug . . .

spread to internal organs.

One man had large growths on his face and head, and would have lived only two months. Within three months, TEPA abolished his cancers. There was no sign that he had any cancer. For nine months he was perfectly well, without getting any more drug, and returned to work. But a bit more than a year after the treatment was started, the seeds of cancer in his body flared up again, and he has generalized melanoma.

Work on mice indicates that TEPA might entirely abolish human melanomas if they were caught very early, said Dr. Farber. Melanomas account for about three per cent of all cancer deaths.

TEPA was developed by scientists of the Calco Chemical Division, American Cyanamid Company, and first was tried against leukemia, the cancer of the blood. It has little effect against acute leukemia, but by happy accident it was tried upon melanoma.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said today he recently received a letter from Holland thanking him and the people of Kingston for contributions in behalf of recent flood victims in the low country.

The letter dated March 23, and signed by Baron van Heeckeren van Molecaten, private secretary to Queen Juliana, said:

"Her Majesty the Queen of the Netherlands instructed me to convey to you her sincerest thanks for your kind letter of Feb. 25, 1953, and the enclosed check for $5,242.52 representing the contributions of the people of Kingston and the surrounding hamlets of Ulster county, towards the needs of victims of the flood.

"Her Majesty is deeply grateful for this spontaneous and generous donation from the Kingston-Holland Relief Fund, especially because she knows that this is a gift from the hearts of her friends in America."

Industrial Group Adopts By-Laws; Election April 20

The Kingston Industrial Development Corporation has now been officially created. The board of directors will meet Monday night, April 20, to elect officers and adopt general policies of operation.

The by-laws of the corporation were adopted at a meeting of subscribers at the County Court House Thursday night at which temporary chairman Robert M. Peebles presided. Louis G. Bruhn, chairman of the committee on by-laws, presented the proposed draft. They were unanimously adopted.

The subscribers also approved the procedure for electing the term of office for the 12 directors. Three will serve for three years, three for two and three for one year. The designations for term of office will be made at the April 20 meeting.

Policies Proposed

Lawrence J. MacAvery presented a proposed set of policies under which the Industrial Development Corporation might function for the information of the subscribers.

Peebles reported briefly on two directors' meetings held previously saying that preliminary steps have alrealy been taken to study the operations of several industrial development corporations. "Our new organization will proceed cautiously and still adopt a sound program of action at the earliest possible date," Peebles said.

Albert Kurdt, temporary secretary of the board added, "All subscribers and citizens should now be on the look-out for industrial prospects and pass along to the Chamber or the directors of the Industrial Development Corporation the names of all firms seeking new or additional facilities in the Hudson Valley area." "Industrial re-location is a complicated problem, but Kingston is now well organized and in a position to aggressively help any industry employing mostly men, in meeting its requirements in this area," Kurdt concluded.

'Wayward Minor' Tag Placed Upon Diane

Rochester, April 10 (AP)—A judge pinned a "wayward minor" tag today on 16-year-old Diane Marie Weggland, who accompanied Fred McManus on the cross-country trip on which he killed five persons.

After a hearing, Judge Thomas J. Meagher of Monroe county Children's Court sent the blonde bobby soxer back to the county jail until April 17, when he will announce whether she will be placed in a reformatory.

Diane, child of a broken home and ward of the Monroe Welfare Department, was brought here last night from Canandaigua, where Ontario county authorities had questioned her about her sweetheart's crime jaunt from Rochester to the midwest.

McManus, 18-year-old marine from Valley Stream, is undergoing mental tests at Willard State Hospital.

Killed Five Persons

He has said he killed five persons to get an auto and money so that he and Diane could marry. The two teen-agers were taken into custody in Dubuque, Iowa, March 31.

McManus is charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of William Allan Braverman, 19, of Rochester, whose car he stole.

Braverman was the first victim. The others were George Bloomberg, 56, and his wife, Florence, 55, in Illinois, and Mrs. David Beaston, 43, and Harriet Horsman, 48, in Minnesota.

Meagher said he could place Diane on probation, or order her confined indefinitely to Westfield State Farms, Bedford Hills, a reformatory for women between the ages of 16 and 30.

The author indicated that the new venture will open the way for a Newburgh patrolman, Jack Stang, to play feature roles.

JobPlacementsAre Higher Than in '52

Placements reported by the New York State Employment Service Kingston office and its Saugerties and Ellenville branches during March were 22 per cent over those made the same month last year, according to the monthly summary released today.

The local offices and its branches placed 405 persons in jobs during March, 1953, compared to 332 placements in March 1952. The gain is attributed to greater use of the employment service by local employers.

Manufacturing industries continued to be the largest source of job openings, accounting for 205 of the total. Service accounted for an additional 113, wholesale and retail trade for 55, agriculture for 10, and the balance of the placements were in public utilities, finance, insurance, and government establishments.

260 Make Applications

A total of 260 new applications were received during the month, with the active file at the close of the month at 1,283, a slight decrease from the previous month.

Weekly average unemployment insurance benefit payments was 1,009, a slight decrease from the weekly average of 1,080 in February. Of the March total, weekly payments handled from the Kingston office averaged 701; Ellenville 177, and Saugerties 131.

Byrd Raps Military

Washington, April 10 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today that if the military leaders "conduct everything as they have this ammunition shortage, the country can have no confidence of security." Byrd spoke out after Secretary of the Army Stevens testified that ammunition supplies in Korea and the Far East are now in good shape to meet any emergency that might develop. Stevens testified before a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee which is trying to find out who and what were responsible for a lack of ammunition in fighting the Korean war.

Two women were injured slightly in a two-car accident at Ten Broeck avenue and O'Neil street at 1:02 p. m. today. A car driven by Charles Joseph Gaudette, 46 Green street, was headed south on Ten Broeck avenue, and one operated by Jane Simoncini, of 315 Broadway, was going east on O'Neil street, when they collided. Lillian Gaudette, wife of the driver of the one car suffered injuries of the left wrist and right hand, and Margaret Wisnewski, of Second avenue, who rode in the other car, suffered a forehead injury. Both cars were towed from the scene, and a porch and foundation on the Rose Kelly property, 154 O'Neil street, was damaged.

Officials said an engine failed. Among the dead were Wing Commander Owen Roberts, managing director of the air line, and three members of the crew. Two infants also perished.

Whitehead Charge Has Been Dismissed

New York, April 10 (AP)—Assistant U. S. Attorney Leonard Maran today announced that an extortion charge against Peter Whitehead, 52, of Byrdcliffe road, Woodstock, has been dismissed.

Whitehead, a real estate operator, was arrested by the FBI on complaint of Mrs. Margaret Kenyon, of Woodstock, who charged she had received threatening letters. After Whitehead's arrest, Maran said, an investigation showed there was nothing to warrant prosecution.

The government moved for dismissal of the charge Wednesday and U. S. Commissioner Isaac Platt granted the motion.

Newburgh Gets Survey's Trophy

Newburgh, April 10 (AP)—The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey today presented a trophy to Newburgh for developing better city government at lower cost.

The private taxpayers' group cited Newburgh as a model for other New York communities. The National Municipal League recently named Newburgh "the All-American City."

In a talk prepared for a presentation luncheon, Survey President Garth A. Shoemaker said, "I am deeply impressed with the budget reduction of nearly $200,000 from 1951 to 1952; with the fact that final 1952 expenses undercut the budget by $83,000, and with your 1953 budget, which is $173,000 below the 1951 budget."

"All this was accomplished," Shoemaker said, "while the city was making important management improvements and improving services to the people of Newburgh."

Republican Mayor Herbert A. Warden and Robert Hinsdale, chairman of the Newburgh Tax Commission, accepted the trophy.

The commission, a private citizens group, "is not resting on any laurels," Hinsdale said.

City Manager Robert P. Aex said that "continuance of the Newburgh program can be assured only through the active support of a citizen group."

Dunkel Is Fined

West Warwick, R. I., April 10 (AP)—Clifford A. Dunkel, 20, of Lake Hill, N. Y., was fined $2 today on a reveling charge in District Court, but his sharp tongue had cost him a night in jail. When he was arraigned yesterday, the sailor was asked by the judge what his parents would think if they knew he had been drinking. "That's my business," he replied. "It's also mine!" said Judge W. Leighton, who then ordered Dunkel held in jail overnight.

Governor Praises

governments underwrite 80 per cent and the localities pay 20 per cent of the costs.

2. The state will pay 50 per cent of the cost of home relief instead of the present 80 per cent, and will pay the full 80 per cent for all persons on home relief above 1 per cent of a locality's population. The federal government does not participate in this program.

3. State aid will be extended on a 50-50 basis to the care of dependent children in foster homes and children's institutions, to hospital care for home-relief cases, to county homes and infirmaries, to shelter care for the homeless and to certain administrative expenses.

Will Double TB Aid

Dewey said this provision would "remove any incentive to place welfare applicants in reimbursable categories, purely because of the state aid factor."

4. State aid for tuberculosis care will be doubled to $5 a day per patient.

Dewey also signed a bill that allows the State Housing Authority to raise rents in limited income housing projects in proportion to the ability to pay when removal proceedings are pending against tenants whose incomes would make them ineligible to live in the project.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 10 (AP)—The stock market drifted lower today—the second declining session after two days of advancing prices.

All areas of the market were covered by the fall. The decline went to around a point at the outside in key areas. Plus signs were small in the light trading.

Definitely lower were railroads, steels, motors, aircrafts, and oils. Utilities were unchanged to higher.

Pepsi-Cola, yesterday's most active issue with a gain of ⅞ at 14⅜, was down a fraction today but without any pronounced activity.

Says Spy Ring Broken

Bonn, Germany, April 10 (AP)—Vice Chancellor Franz Bluecher announced today the smashing of a widespread Soviet spy ring in Western Germany. He said it was directed by Russian army officers at Soviet headquarters in East Berlin and specialized in industrial espionage in the vital Ruhr valley. Bluecher said more than 35 persons—all Germans—had been arrested and more will be jailed. He termed the ring "the largest Soviet secret organization uncovered in Western Germany since the beginning of the occupation in 1945."

Starzel Lauds AP For '52 'Triumphs'

New York, April 10 (AP)—Frank J. Starzel, general manager of The Associated Press, said today that 1952 was a year of "outstanding triumphs" for the AP.

In his annual report to the news cooperative's newspaper and radio membership, Starzel said the year was "notable for climactic accomplishment" of long term projects. The report was mailed to members in advance of the annual meeting here April 20.

Starzel said the year's accomplishments included:

Development of new techniques in national election coverage;

Mechanization, by means of radioteletype, of international communications which enables the AP to deliver and receive quickly news and pictures to and from distant parts of the world;

Conversion to teletypsetter operation of all state single circuits and some trunk circuits. For many years news was transmitted on printers in capital letters. On teletypsetter, the news is printed just as typewritten copy appears with capitals and small letters.

Also, teletypesetter tape may be converted automatically into type at newspaper plants.

Polls of Delegates

The 1952 presidential campaign coverage included polls of delegates to the national conventions to determine delegate preferences and included also state-by-state political surveys. The latter based on composite estimates by newspaper and radio editors and political reporters, attempted to show political trends.

Discussing the AP's worldwide communications, Starzel said newspapers and radio stations in Latin America received by teleprinter a news report "that in speed, volume and scope compared with the news service received by domestic members." The teleprinter is actuated by radio impulse.

"This followed a similar development of AP facilities to the Far Pacific the previous year," he said. "Thus dispatches now flow into Tokyo, Manila, Singapore, Santiago, Chile, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro in full printer text. * * * The volume of news has increased from some 15,000 words to more than 40,000 words daily.

To All Parts of World

"News pictures followed in the path of the news to the same areas, completing the network of daily, regularly filed wirephoto-radiophoto service to all parts of the world."

More than 900 newspapers received their news reports in 1952 on teletypsetter circuits. Of these, more than 200 received the main trunk wire report by teletypsetter wires. Some received their full financial report and major league box score service by this means.

During the year, the AP sports department instituted, Starzel said, "one of its most ambitious projects—setting up a major league baseball statistical service to supply up-to-the-minute records in batting and pitching direct by wire."

Domestic newspaper membership during the year totaled 1,725 and radio membership 1,185. Outside the United States, the AP served 3,138 newspapers, radio stations and publications in 69 countries.

US Warns . . .

action which might jeopardize the talks at Panmunjom."

Gross said a speech by Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky yesterday—which caused considerable confusion—proved how futile and unhelpful it was to debate these issues now.

Taking note of the Polish proposal's demand for an immediate Korean cease-fire, Gross repeated the western stand that there can be no cease-fire in that war torn land if it is based on the forcible repatriation of unwilling prisoners of war.

He said there was hope an exchange of sick and wounded would soon take place and urged that nothing be allowed to interfere with the progress of the Panmunjom talks.

Considerable Hope

Gross pointed out that there had been considerable hope in some quarters recently that the Soviet Union was now prepared to negotiate seriously on arms reduction. He said Vishinsky's speech had showed the Kremlin had reverted to its old ideas "which would scuttle talks."

As for Vishinsky's demand that the west abandon the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Gross said this was not a serious proposal and need not be taken seriously. Gross declared "everything we are doing in NATO is aimed at the preservation of peace."

He said the NATO countries were merely building the "minimum forces required for protection against attack." Gross said this was a duty and we "reaffirm that duty today in this solemn assembly."

Gross said the U. S. felt Russia's demand for a new peace pact among the Big Five powers—France, Britain, Rusia, and U. S. and China—was necessary since the charter of the UN itself represented such a pact.

"There is no need for a new pact," he declared. "The need is for compliance by the Soviet government with existing charter obligations."

Gross said Russian actions since World War II had destroyed the confidence of the world and said "our confidence will be restored when they honor existing obligations."

Thing Called Glamor, Strictly Chemistry Says Veteran Actor

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

That thing called glamor is strictly chemistry, says Charles Coburn, the monocle-wearing veteran of stage and screen, who has been exposed to more of it than most men during his 60 years as an actor, producer and movie star.

Possessed by Few

The word glamor is used much too loosely, says the benign Coburn, because it is possessed by only a few women in each generation—and they are the lucky ones who are born with it. Asked to define this elusive but explosive quality, Hollywood's grand old man chewed meditatively on his brunch toast and said:

"When a woman has it, she's like a magnet, drawing all men to her. She's like a hypnotist, putting her subjects in a trance, so that they do as she desires, without their own volition. She doesn't have to be beautiful—she may be actually ugly. But is she's born with this rare quality, the world is her apple."

Coburn has either managed or acted with most of the great stars of the stage and screen of the last three generations. But of all the beauties with whom he has shared the spotlight, he can name only a few who, in his opinion, had "that certain thing." Of all of them, the most glamorous, he says, was the late Minnie Maddern Fiske, first lady of the stage at the turn of the century. Says he:

"Aside from my wife, Mrs. Fiske was the most glamorous woman I have ever known. When she was on the stage, people forgot everything but her. Her magnetism reached out through the theatre and drew the audience literally out of this world. I never thought of her as Mrs. Fiske, but as whatever character she was playing, because she was the character. That is what is meant by a great actress."

Helen Hayes

The nearest approach to Mrs. Fiske in today's roster as actresses, says Coburn, is Helen Hayes. He also admires Katharine Cornell. Among movie stars of the past, he remembers most vividly Clara Bow, the "It Girl" of the '20's.

Coburn has been relaxing in New York after completing work on his 53d picture, "Trouble Along the Way," to be released soon by Warner Bros.

He was born in Savannah, Ga., June 19, 1877, got a job distributing programs in the Savannah Theatre at the age of 13, and has been connected with the stage ever since.

He was married to the late Ivah Wills, his partner and leading lady in the Charles Coburn Players, top name in the heyday of the road show. Coburn recalls that he gave Theda Bara, the siren of the silent films, her first acting job back in 1910, adding:

"But her name wasn't Theda Bara then. She was born Theodosia Goodman, and when I knew her was billed as Theodosia De Coppet. She played Shakespearian roles—Jessica in "Merchant of Venice" and Lady Olivia in "Twelfth Night."

Exotic Vampire

"I was amused when she burst upon Hollywood some years later as the exotic imported vampire who was supposed not to be able to speak a word of English."

Coburn is enthusiastic about the future of three-dimensional films, but says he can top even that new miracle. Says he:

"I played with Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell in the picture 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes'—and I call that a four-dimensional film."

AP Women's Editor

That thing called glamor is strictly chemistry, says Charles Coburn, the monocle-wearing veteran of stage and screen, who has been exposed to more of it than most men during his 60 years as an actor, producer and movie star.

Possessed by Few

The word glamor is used much too loosely, says the benign Coburn, because it is possessed by only a few women in each generation—and they are the lucky ones who are born with it. Asked to define this elusive but explosive quality, Hollywood's grand old man chewed meditatively on his brunch toast and said:

"When a woman has it, she's like a magnet, drawing all men to her. She's like a hypnotist, putting her subjects in a trance, so that they do as she desires, without their own volition. She doesn't have to be beautiful—she may be actually ugly. But is she's born with this rare quality, the world is her apple."

Coburn has either managed or acted with most of the great stars of the stage and screen of the last three generations. But of all the beauties with whom he has shared the spotlight, he can name only a few who, in his opinion, had "that certain thing." Of all of them, the most glamorous, he says, was the late Minnie Maddern Fiske, first lady of the stage at the turn of the century. Says he:

"Aside from my wife, Mrs. Fiske was the most glamorous woman I have ever known. When she was on the stage, people forgot everything but her. Her magnetism reached out through the theatre and drew the audience literally out of this world. I never thought of her as Mrs. Fiske, but as whatever character she was playing, because she was the character. That is what is meant by a great actress."

Helen Hayes

The nearest approach to Mrs. Fiske in today's roster as actresses, says Coburn, is Helen Hayes. He also admires Katharine Cornell. Among movie stars of the past, he remembers most vividly Clara Bow, the "It Girl" of the '20's.

Coburn has been relaxing in New York after completing work on his 53d picture, "Trouble Along the Way," to be released soon by Warner Bros.

He was born in Savannah, Ga., June 19, 1877, got a job distributing programs in the Savannah Theatre at the age of 13, and has been connected with the stage ever since.

He was married to the late Ivah Wills, his partner and leading lady in the Charles Coburn Players, top name in the heyday of the road show. Coburn recalls that he gave Theda Bara, the siren of the silent films, her first acting job back in 1910, adding:

"But her name wasn't Theda Bara then. She was born Theodosia Goodman, and when I knew her was billed as Theodosia De Coppet. She played Shakespearian roles—Jessica in "Merchant of Venice" and Lady Olivia in "Twelfth Night."

Exotic Vampire

"I was amused when she burst upon Hollywood some years later as the exotic imported vampire who was supposed not to be able to speak a word of English."

Coburn is enthusiastic about the future of three-dimensional films, but says he can top even that new miracle. Says he:

"I played with Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell in the picture 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes'—and I call that a four-dimensional film."

WHEN NAME IS MISPRONOUNCED

A reader asks: "When someone introduces me and mispronounces my name, is it right for me to interrupt and give the correct pronunciation of it, or do I just let it go?"

If you alone are being introduced, you may properly pronounce it correctly, but if you are one of a group, it is best to let it go rather than to interrupt the introductions of the rest of the group.

Child Named for Grandfather

Dear Mrs. Post: I was not named for my father, but would like to name my son for him (the child's paternal grandfather). I have read in your book that a child named for a grandfather would be junior. However, my friends insist that he would be second, pointing out Adlai Stevenson, II, named for his grandfather and also Henry Ford, II. Will you please set me straight on this matter?

Answer: Correctly, Jr. does not mean son, or grandson. But the rule is not inflexible, and the grandson is often called second instead of junior. Properly, "2nd" means a nephew or cousin. Jr. means direct descent — either father or grandfather.

Sauce in Paper Cups

Dear Mrs. Post: When catsup or tartar sauce, or possibly mint jelly, is served as an accompaniment to meat or fish in a little paper container right on the dinner plate, how should this be eaten? Should the contents be taken out of the cup, and how, or should one eat from the cup?

Answer: There is no rule about this. You do whichever you prefer. Of course, using your fork.

Boys' Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct clothes for a thirteen-year-old boy to wear in the evening on a trans-Atlantic liner first class? Is he too young for a dinner jacket?

Answer: It is not expected that a child of this age wear evening clothes. But to dinner he should wear a dark blue suit with a white shirt.

Someone called an ambulance which conveyed Jones to the hospital, but the state police report stated Jones was released from the hospital with no serious injuries.

Wilson Asks Waiver On Stocks, Seeks Big Business Aides

Washington, April 10 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has asked members of the Senate Armed Services Committee to waive their stock disposal rule so he can hire two more big businessmen as top assistants.

The battle over Wilson's own nomination, which ended in a decision that he had to promise to dispose of his General Motors stock before being confirmed, touched off the first big appointment fuss of the new Eisenhower administration.

The defense secretary's move to reopen the touchy political situation seemed likely to bring flat refusal from armed services committee members. Senators willing to discuss the matter predicted the committee will not relent in its requirements that defense officials dispose of their industrial holdings.

The law says that no federal official shall do business with any firm in which he has even an indirect financial interest.

Wilson was reported to have suggested the Unification Act be amended to give him two additional assistant secretaries. He now has three such aides, paid $15,000 yearly.

Wilson was said to have told committee members he is having extreme difficulty in enlisting the men he wants because the prospective appointees are reluctant to dispose of their stocks.

70,500 Trout Now In Esopus Creek

Woodstock, April 10 — At the regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs Thursday night at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club, it was announced by Earl Conro, of Phoenicia, president of the Federation, that a total of 70,500 trout has been placed in the Esopus Creek for 1953, by the New York Conservation Department.

A discussion took place on the soil conservation in the county, a matter of concern to the sportsmen's clubs owing to its effect upon streams and watersheds. It was agreed that when farm organizations decided to take active part in the program the Federation will lend assistance. Further discussion on the program will be held at the May meeting.

A proposal, which had been introduced at the March meeting by Les Hotaling, of the Lake Katrine Club, concerning game protectors was brought up for discussion. The suggestion that there be more game protectors was defeated by a vote of nine to five. The further questions that the game protector's salary should be increased from the Civil Service G-6 classification to the G-8 classification, and that their cars be equipped with radios, were tabled until the May meeting.

Conro appointed a committee to investigate the prices on pheasants. A vote will be taken at the next meeting on the distribution of pheasants.

It was suggested by Conro that the monthly meeting date of the Federation be changed from the second Thursday of the month. After a discussion on the floor it was agreed that the meetings for the next two months will be held on the third Thursday of the month. The next meeting will be held Thursday, the 21st of May. The Upper Esopus Sportsmen's Club has invited the Federation to hold the meeting at their club that evening. The club is located between Pine Hill and Big Indian.

Children Don't Respect Us Unless We Respect Them

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A reader of this column is "heartsick" at her young daughter's disrespect. "I know that my yelling at her is responsible," she writes. "As you recently suggested, I have just begun to realize that I yell at her because I fear that she doesn't love me or trust what I say. How can I win her love and trust?"

To answer this mother, I want to report an educational experience of my own with disrespect.

The summer I was 20, the executive of a small welfare agency put me in charge of his office while he was away on a "field" trip.

The staff was Manya, 17, slow, plump, very capable. I feared she wouldn't do what I said, so I set out to make her "love" me. I brought her chocolates. I asked her if she "minded" taking dictation. To flatter her, I asked her questions whose answers I knew. At the end of two weeks, Manya couldn't stand me.

At first, I was bewildered and confused. I bought more chocolates. I typed my own letters. It did no good. By the end of a month, Manya was so openly disrespectful that I was tempted to quit my job.

I didn't. One day when Manya was particularly rude, I did some thinking. Then I called Manya in, and said, "Manya, I'm new at giving people orders. I've been scared of you. And I've been showing off, Manya. Now that we know why we've been unhappy working together, sit down and take this letter for me. . . ."

The next day I found that Manya had saved me a piece of the Polish sweetmeat her mother had put in her lunchbox."

Our real, uncertain selves, honestly revealed to others, are far more appealing than our patronizing or yelling ones. For these are both secretly aggressive, proclaiming, "My, how superior I am to you!"

I hope my reader sees that my desire to be "loved" by Manya was really my desire to inflate my importance at her expense. I hope she sees I got no respect from Manya until I dispensed a little myself. Until I told the truth to Manya, we couldn't know each other at all.

"If we want a young daughter's respect, we have to respect her first. We have to respect her enough to entrust her with the truth about ourselves, so that we can say, "Look, I've been yelling at you because I'm scared you don't love me. This fear has made me clumsy and bullying when I give you an order. Now that I know how much I want you to love me, I'm just going to say so. I would, for instance, like to have you with me while we set the table together."

WHEN NAME IS MISPRONOUNCED

A reader asks: "When someone introduces me and mispronounces my name, is it right for me to interrupt and give the correct pronunciation of it, or do I just let it go?"

If you alone are being introduced, you may properly pronounce it correctly, but if you are one of a group, it is best to let it go rather than to interrupt the introductions of the rest of the group.

Child Named for Grandfather

Dear Mrs. Post: I was not named for my father, but would like to name my son for him (the child's paternal grandfather). I have read in your book that a child named for a grandfather would be junior. However, my friends insist that he would be second, pointing out Adlai Stevenson, II, named for his grandfather and also Henry Ford, II. Will you please set me straight on this matter?

Answer: Correctly, Jr. does not mean son, or grandson. But the rule is not inflexible, and the grandson is often called second instead of junior. Properly, "2nd" means a nephew or cousin. Jr. means direct descent — either father or grandfather.

Sauce in Paper Cups

Dear Mrs. Post: When catsup or tartar sauce, or possibly mint jelly, is served as an accompaniment to meat or fish in a little paper container right on the dinner plate, how should this be eaten? Should the contents be taken out of the cup, and how, or should one eat from the cup?

Answer: There is no rule about this. You do whichever you prefer. Of course, using your fork.

Boys' Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct clothes for a thirteen-year-old boy to wear in the evening on a trans-Atlantic liner first class? Is he too young for a dinner jacket?

Answer: It is not expected that a child of this age wear evening clothes. But to dinner he should wear a dark blue suit with a white shirt.

Wilson Asks Waiver On Stocks, Seeks Big Business Aides

Washington, April 10 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has asked members of the Senate Armed Services Committee to waive their stock disposal rule so he can hire two more big businessmen as top assistants.

The battle over Wilson's own nomination, which ended in a decision that he had to promise to dispose of his General Motors stock before being confirmed, touched off the first big appointment fuss of the new Eisenhower administration.

The defense secretary's move to reopen the touchy political situation seemed likely to bring flat refusal from armed services committee members. Senators willing to discuss the matter predicted the committee will not relent in its requirements that defense officials dispose of their industrial holdings.

The law says that no federal official shall do business with any firm in which he has even an indirect financial interest.

Wilson was reported to have suggested the Unification Act be amended to give him two additional assistant secretaries. He now has three such aides, paid $15,000 yearly.

Wilson was said to have told committee members he is having extreme difficulty in enlisting the men he wants because the prospective appointees are reluctant to dispose of their stocks.

70,500 Trout Now In Esopus Creek

Woodstock, April 10 — At the regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs Thursday night at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club, it was announced by Earl Conro, of Phoenicia, president of the Federation, that a total of 70,500 trout has been placed in the Esopus Creek for 1953, by the New York Conservation Department.

A discussion took place on the soil conservation in the county, a matter of concern to the sportsmen's clubs owing to its effect upon streams and watersheds. It was agreed that when farm organizations decided to take active part in the program the Federation will lend assistance. Further discussion on the program will be held at the May meeting.

A proposal, which had been introduced at the March meeting by Les Hotaling, of the Lake Katrine Club, concerning game protectors was brought up for discussion. The suggestion that there be more game protectors was defeated by a vote of nine to five. The further questions that the game protector's salary should be increased from the Civil Service G-6 classification to the G-8 classification, and that their cars be equipped with radios, were tabled until the May meeting.

Conro appointed a committee to investigate the prices on pheasants. A vote will be taken at the next meeting on the distribution of pheasants.

It was suggested by Conro that the monthly meeting date of the Federation be changed from the second Thursday of the month. After a discussion on the floor it was agreed that the meetings for the next two months will be held on the third Thursday of the month. The next meeting will be held Thursday, the 21st of May. The Upper Esopus Sportsmen's Club has invited the Federation to hold the meeting at their club that evening. The club is located between Pine Hill and Big Indian.

Balch Says Dewey Is Most Powerful Figure in Nation

Hudson, April 10 (AP) — Former Rep. Leonard Hall, as chairman of the Republican National Committee, will "see that things are run in Washington the way Tom Dewey wants them run," the Democratic state chairman says.

Richard H. Balch took the swipe at Gov. Dewey last night in addressing the Columbia County Democratic Women's Club. Balch called Hall "Dewey's hand-picked candidate" for the party post.

The GOP National Committee selects a chairman today. President Eisenhower endorsed Hall last night, making his selection a sure thing. The former congressman now is a Nassau county surrogate.

Balch called Dewey a "cold, calculating man," and the "most powerful figure in the country today."

"His power extends from the precincts in New York state right up to the White House in Washington," the Democratic leader said.

The Stewart Air Base Concert Band is composed of 40 members and is under the direction of Bandmaster Elmer Reade, CWO.

Following the concert the senior high school girls in the homemaking department, under the direction of Miss Evelyn Folchi, homemaking teacher, will prepare and serve a buffet supper. Band members and members of the board of education and their wives will be guests at this buffet supper. Assisting Miss Folchi with the buffet supper will be Kathleen Stella, Katherine Montiforte, Alice Barringer, Patricia McNamara, Sondra Sickler, Harriet Reuss, Aledra Good, Katherine Alexander and Gisela Kurta.

There will be no admission charge for the band concert. A cordial invitation to attend this concert is extended not only to residents of the Onteora School District but also to any other interested persons.

It's pure silk navy taffeta with off-shoulder look and whittled-down waistline. From Vera Maxwell comes (right) another two-piece costume that looks like one. This is in a double thickness of white chiffon, has surplice top and slim, pleated skirt. All three fashions are worn with bras providing correct curve-control.

Those .22 Long Rifle Bullets

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

Out of earshot of the kitchen, a youngster was trying his new .22 on the chipmunks flipping along a stone wall. One bullet bounced, whined through the kitchen window into the bowl of the chocolate cake batter. It ruined the cake, and for that morning at least, his mother's operations in the pastry line. Funny? Nope, dangerous. The bullet might have hit the beater, not the batter.

Every box of .22 long rifle cartridges is carefully marked, "Dangerous within one mile."

But, says you, it can't do much damage very far away, compared to a high-velocity rifle bullet. The .30-06 sporting cartridge will drive its 150-grain slugs about two miles and kill across most of that range, while the .22 may not have much oomph left four or five hundred yards from the gun.

But even if it doesn't strike a person or a farm animal, if it merely breaks a thin pane of glass it has done tremendous damage to your shooting fun, to the interests of shooters in general.

Depending on the load and the distance from the gun muzzle, a .22 rimfire bullet will penetrate as many as eight pine boards planed ⅞ of an inch thick. It will do a spectacular job, particularly the hollow-point bullet, in tearing a gaping hole through laundry soap or through the gelatine blocks which are now used in laboratory tests because their consistency is close to that of human flesh.

In the minds of many, a lightweight .22 semi-automatic pistol is tops as a defense weapon, not so much because it packs the wallop of a .38 or a .45, but because these hollow points make a very nasty wound, and the gun's recoil is so light that an attacker can be liberally peppered with them in a very few seconds.

The pistol will even kill moose, under some circumstances. Four or five years ago in Quebec I watched an Indian go after moose for meat, for himself and his dogs with the .22 pistol he carried when tending traps. And he was potting young bulls and cows through the earhole.

The .22 was never intended for any game larger than a rabbit or a groundhog, and certainly isn't sporting on any large critters, but like women, it can't be underestimated.

One thing you can be dead certain a .22 bullet will do, and that is to ricochet, to bounce off water, off rocks or sloping wood surfaces, off hard ground. It was a ricochet that ruined the chocolate cake, and it is ricochet whines that cause most of the protests by farmers, about indiscriminate shooting.

And it's the possibility of ricochet you must always have in mind in aiming your pinking .22.

Tryouts Set

The date for tryouts will be announced at an early date by league director, John Hasbrouck. He said today he hoped to have definite information by the middle of next week.

Hasbrouck said he had been in contact with Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and had been assured that decision on a downtown playing site would be made by April 15 or 16.

The American Division, the original group will play its games at the permanent stadium on the 156th Field Artillery grounds off Manor avenue.

President Gardner will announce the names of team managers, coaches, umpires, official scorers and ground keepers in the near future.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

General

Oakland, Calif.—Former major league catcher Ernie Lombardi taken off the critical list after he attempted suicide.

Beaumont, Tex.—Babe Didrickson Zaharias — greatest modern American woman athlete with outstanding Olympic, golf, basketball feats to her credit—may be through as big-time competitor according to family doctor.

Lincoln, R. I.—Tony De Spirito, the jockey who won a record 390 races in 1952, suffered a brain concussion and multiple bruises in a three-horse spill at Lincoln Downs.

Chicago — Ray Kilgore, San Francisco, won the world's three-cushion billiard championship.

Here We Go Again, Boys

The opening of the 1953 trout season Saturday morning looks like the same old story from here.

Present early season conditions on the Big Beaverkill, Little Beaverkill and Willowemac are reported good.

But the less said about the Esopus and East Branch the better, according to an on-the-spot survey by Ray Trullinger.

The Esopus, between Shandaken and the Ashokan Reservoir, is running a torrent of muddy water. The messy condition originates at Shandaken and from there on the stream is unfishable.

And it's highly improbable that the situation has been improved with last night's rain. Water temperatures in the Esopus ranged around 46 yesterday.

But will that deter the hardy angler? Not a bit. A record turnout is expected, cold water, chilblains, empty creels and all.

Sandy 9-5 Choice Over Jimmy Beau

New York, April 10 (AP) — In case you haven't heard or have been away on a long trip, don't be surprised when Randy Sandy and Jimmy Beau pop up on your television screen tonight instead of Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Tonight was the original date for the heavyweight title return bout in Chicago Stadium. But an injury to Rocky's nose forced a postponement until May 15.

Sandy, a skinny, 22-year-old New York middleweight, meets Beau, 160 pounder of New Canaan, Conn., in the main 10 rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Sandy, eight pounds lighter, is 9 to 5 choice to beat his heavier and more experienced rival.

The bout will start at 10 p. m., EST, and will be telecast (NBC) and broadcast (ABC) over the same networks that would have carried the big heavyweight fight.

Harvey Haddix, rookie hurler for the St. Louis Cardinals, was nicknamed "The Kitten" because of his resemblance to Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, former Card pitching star.

Hoppe's Title Won by Kilgore

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—"It was a rough 15 days and now I've got to relax," says Ray Kilgore, the new world's three-cushion billiard king.

For the first time in eight years a name besides that of Willie Hoppe heads the three-rail listing. Hoppe, after seven consecutive world titles, retired last October.

Kilgore, his successor, is a 39-year-old San Franciscan. He operates a billiard parlor for Welker Cochran, Hoppe's formidable foe of yesteryear.

"I've been playing since I was 16 but never won any big ones," Kilgore said last night after taking the championship and the $2,000 first prize.

Kilgore cinched the crown with eight victories and two defeats in the 10-match round-robin tourney by defeating Ezequiel Navarra in the finale. The Argentine champion from Buenos Aires lost 50-48 in 51 innings.

Navarra and Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Calif., tied for second place each with 7-3.

A Yankee Is Safe at Third

Hogan Jet Propels Ball From Sand Trap

Bantam Ben Hogan, of Palm Springs, Cal., lifts a stream of sand as he jet propels his ball from a difficult lie in a trap onto the 4th green in the first round of the 1953 Masters Golf Tournament at Augusta, Ga., April 9. Hogan, winner of this event in 1951, turned in a two-under-par 70 for the round.

M. Marusic Opens Fast In Masters

Chick Harbert, the long-hitting Detroit pro, led the first round of the Master's Tournament at Augusta, Ga., yesterday with a 4-under-par 68, but Milon Marusic, the former Bald Eagle of Wolfert's Roost, Albany, shared a fourth-place tie with Ben Hogan at 70.

A popular figure in the Woodstock Open and Wiltwyck Pro-Am for several years before he transferred his PGA membership to the Herkimer district, Marusic still retains his Northeastern New York membership.

The slim ex-serviceman carded the best nine holes of the day with an outgoing 32, but slumped to 38 on the back nine for a flat 70.

Harbert spliced 33 and 35 for his 68, while Al Besselink of Grossingers and Ed Oliver of Palm Springs, Cal., fired identical cards of 34-35-69 for second place.

A steady circuit performer, Marusic has never been able to crash through to a major triumph. He was brilliant on the front nine but his old bugaboo, errant drives, got him into trouble for soaring 38 on the home trek.

3 Birdies in Row

"I was just playing over my head going out," said the slender Herkimer pro. "Starting out I was really sticking my drives in there and the first thing you know I'm three under with birdies on the first three holes. Then a little later I sank a 20-footer for another."

Hogan needed only to par the last two holes to tie Harbert for the lead, but the 1951 Masters champion missed short putts on both and had to settle for fourth with Marusic.

Sam Snead shot a 70, but his playing partner, Byron Nelson, made a mistake in keeping score and gave him a par-4 on the 18th instead of the three he actually scored with a fine chip shot that hit the cup.

Snead signed the card without noticing the error. There was a lot of excited discussion when the mistake was caught, and the officials ruled Snead had to take a 71 if he wanted to continue his pursuit of his second consecutive Masters victory.

New York (Sunnyside Garden)—Jimmy McCoy, 145, Portland, Ore., outpointed Mike Colucci, 147½, New York, 8.

Lombardi Taken Off Critical List

Livermore, Calif., April 10 (AP) — Ernie Lombardi, former National League batting champ and Most Valuable Player, now is expected to survive the ear-to-ear throat slashing he gave himself.

The big, good-natured "Schnoz," recently despondent, tried to take his life with a razor blade Wednesday night.

He was given two blood transfusions and doctors said he had been taken off the critical list. He was transferred to Livermore Hospital.

Mrs. Lombardi said Ernie, 45, attempted suicide while en route to a sanitarium for psychiatric treatment.

Rappaport In Playoff

Rappaport tied with Joseph Schwartz of Poughkeepsie with 41 points in the annual tournament Thursday at the Poughkeepsie YMCA.

Fourteen of the mid-Hudson district's best checker wizards competed.

Other leaders were George Traver, Poughkeepsie, 39 points; Ray Philips and Sam Turnbull, Poughkeepsie, 35 points; and James Prior, Newburgh, 31 points.

The Sunday playoff is scheduled at 2 p. m., with the champion and runnerup receiving trophies donated by Ray Philips.

Yanks, Brooks AP Poll Picks For Pennants

New York, April 10 (AP)—If the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers meet in the World Series again this fall don't say you weren't given fair warning. An Associated Press poll of the Baseball Wrtiers' Association shows the experts are stringing along with last year's major league winners.

The Dodgers got the biggest vote as 105 of the 142 participating writers selected them to fly the National League championship colors for the third time in five years.

Eighty-seven said New York's American League entry, and current world champions, would make it five titles in a row. Cleveland's Indians were selected as the second place finisher with 48 votes.

The Philadelphia Phillies outpointed the New York Giants 886 to 873 for runner-up in the senior circuit on the basis of eight points for first place votes, seven for second, etc.

Brooklyn had a solid 1,090 votes. Fourth place in the balloting for the National League finish went to the St. Louis Cardinals with 809 points.

The Phils pulled down only 14 first place votes to 18 for the Giants but had stronger support for second place. The Cards were favored to win the pennant by five writers.

Bucky Walters, coach of the Milwaukee Braves, won 198 games as a big league pitcher.

Blast Three Homers Off Vic Raschi

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates, probably some of the most harmless Buccaneers ever to hoist the skull and crossbones, were enjoying a hearty laugh today after meeting and conquering the vaunted New York Yankees.

They not only conquered the world champions, they humiliated them in what one New York writer was moved to describe as a battle between the worst and best major league teams without being able to tell which was which.

Ralph Kiner, Cal Abrams and Danny O'Connell slashed home runs off Raschi before the fast balling right hander took cover after seven innings. Kiner's blow came with two on base while Abrams' was a pinch hit effort. In all, the Pirates got 13 hits off Raschi and two more off relief man Tom Gorman, more than they collected on most days off the bush league Cubans they faced during spring training in Havana.

Mantle Hits Whopper

A tremendous home run over the roof of the double deck right field stands by Mickey Mantle was the only solace for the Yankees. The 360 foot drive was still 90 feet in the air when it disappeared from sight. Only two other players ever cleared that roof—Babe Ruth in 1935 with his 714th and last home run, and Ted Beard in 1950.

The Philadelphia Athletics pitted their best against their intercity rivals' best at Portsmouth, Va., yesterday and came out on the short end as Robin Roberts pitched a five-hit shutout for the Phillies and won, 4-0. Bobby Shantz gave up only two hits and struck out seven in the five innings he worked for the Athletics, but he gave up the first of the Phils runs and was charged with the loss. Roberts struck out seven in going nine innings for the first time this spring.

Rain cut short major league baseball's return to Milwaukee after a 50-year absence. The new Milwaukee Braves got in only two innings against their former city rivals, the Boston Red Sox, and were tailing, 3-0, when a heavy drizzle put an end to the proceedings.

Reds Change Name

Cincinnati, which announced yesterday that it intended to be called the Redlegs instead of the Reds this season, belted five home runs off Ned Garver and defeated Detroit, 13-3, at Columbus, Ohio.

At Kingsport, Tenn., the New York Giants picked on Bobby Feller for seven runs in the first six innings and outlasted the Cleveland Indians, 7-6.

Against Southern Association opposition the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Memphis Chicks, 12-5, and the Chicago White Sox blanked Atlanta, 7-0.

Cardinals Purchase Sportsman Park; Now Budweiser Park

St. Louis, April 10 (AP)—Sportsman's Park has a new owner and a new name today.

St. Louis' two ball clubs—the Cardinals and Browns—reversed their tenant-landlord role in an $800,000 deal. The Northside Park now is Budweiser Stadium.

Officials of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., owner of the Redbirds, and the Browns gave two reasons for the ownership change:

The Cardinals wanted to make expensive improvements, but not while someone else owned the park; and the Browns could use the money to help pay operating costs this year.

The Cardinals had been renting the park for $35,000 a year under a lease running through 1960. They also footed half the maintenance costs, which last year added an estimated $105,000 to their bill.

The Browns now will rent from from the Redbirds at $175,000 annually, but will have no maintenance expenses under the arrangement.

It will do a spectacular job, particularly the hollow-point bullet, in tearing a gaping hole through laundry soap or through the gelatine blocks which are now used in laboratory tests because their consistency is close to that of human flesh.

In the minds of many, a lightweight .22 semi-automatic pistol is tops as a defense weapon, not so much because it packs the wallop of a .38 or a .45, but because these hollow points make a very nasty wound, and the gun's recoil is so light that an attacker can be liberally peppered with them in a very few seconds.

The pistol will even kill moose, under some circumstances. Four or five years ago in Quebec I watched an Indian go after moose for meat, for himself and his dogs with the .22 pistol he carried when tending traps. And he was potting young bulls and cows through the earhole.

The .22 was never intended for any game larger than a rabbit or a groundhog, and certainly isn't sporting on any large critters, but like women, it can't be underestimated.

One thing you can be dead certain a .22 bullet will do, and that is to ricochet, to bounce off water, off rocks or sloping wood surfaces, off hard ground. It was a ricochet that ruined the chocolate cake, and it is ricochet whines that cause most of the protests by farmers, about indiscriminate shooting.

And it's the possibility of ricochet you must always have in mind in aiming your pinking .22.

Tryouts Set

The date for tryouts will be announced at an early date by league director, John Hasbrouck. He said today he hoped to have definite information by the middle of next week.

Hasbrouck said he had been in contact with Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and had been assured that decision on a downtown playing site would be made by April 15 or 16.

The American Division, the original group will play its games at the permanent stadium on the 156th Field Artillery grounds off Manor avenue.

President Gardner will announce the names of team managers, coaches, umpires, official scorers and ground keepers in the near future.

Sports of the Day

(By The Associated Press)

General

Oakland, Calif.—Former major league catcher Ernie Lombardi taken off the critical list after he attempted suicide.

Beaumont, Tex.—Babe Didrickson Zaharias — greatest modern American woman athlete with outstanding Olympic, golf, basketball feats to her credit—may be through as big-time competitor according to family doctor.

Lincoln, R. I.—Tony De Spirito, the jockey who won a record 390 races in 1952, suffered a brain concussion and multiple bruises in a three-horse spill at Lincoln Downs.

Chicago — Ray Kilgore, San Francisco, won the world's three-cushion billiard championship.

A Yankee Is Safe at Third

Hogan Jet Propels Ball From Sand Trap

Bantam Ben Hogan, of Palm Springs, Cal., lifts a stream of sand as he jet propels his ball from a difficult lie in a trap onto the 4th green in the first round of the 1953 Masters Golf Tournament at Augusta, Ga., April 9. Hogan, winner of this event in 1951, turned in a two-under-par 70 for the round.

Sandy 9-5 Choice Over Jimmy Beau

New York, April 10 (AP)—In case you haven't heard or have been away on a long trip, don't be surprised when Randy Sandy and Jimmy Beau pop up on your television screen tonight instead of Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Tonight was the original date for the heavyweight title return bout in Chicago Stadium. But an injury to Rocky's nose forced a postponement until May 15.

Sandy, a skinny, 22-year-old New York middleweight, meets Beau, 160 pounder of New Canaan, Conn., in the main 10 rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Sandy, eight pounds lighter, is 9 to 5 choice to beat his heavier and more experienced rival.

The bout will start at 10 p. m., EST, and will be telecast (NBC) and broadcast (ABC) over the same networks that would have carried the big heavyweight fight.

Harvey Haddix, rookie hurler for the St. Louis Cardinals, was nicknamed "The Kitten" because of his resemblance to Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, former Card pitching star.

Hoppe's Title Won by Kilgore

Chicago, April 10 (AP)—"It was a rough 15 days and now I've got to relax," says Ray Kilgore, the new world's three-cushion billiard king.

For the first time in eight years a name besides that of Willie Hoppe heads the three-rail listing. Hoppe, after seven consecutive world titles, retired last October.

Kilgore, his successor, is a 39-year-old San Franciscan. He operates a billiard parlor for Welker Cochran, Hoppe's formidable foe of yesteryear.

"I've been playing since I was 16 but never won any big ones," Kilgore said last night after taking the championship and the $2,000 first prize.

Kilgore cinched the crown with eight victories and two defeats in the 10-match round-robin tourney by defeating Ezequiel Navarra in the finale. The Argentine champion from Buenos Aires lost 50-48 in 51 innings.

Navarra and Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Calif., tied for second place each with 7-3.

Here We Go Again, Boys

The opening of the 1953 trout season Saturday morning looks like the same old story from here.

Present early season conditions on the Big Beaverkill, Little Beaverkill and Willowemac are reported good.

But the less said about the Esopus and East Branch the better, according to an on-the-spot survey by Ray Trullinger.

The Esopus, between Shandaken and the Ashokan Reservoir, is running a torrent of muddy water. The messy condition originates at Shandaken and from there on the stream is unfishable.

And it's highly improbable that the situation has been improved with last night's rain. Water temperatures in the Esopus ranged around 46 yesterday.

But will that deter the hardy angler? Not a bit. A record turnout is expected, cold water, chilblains, empty creels and all.

M. Marusic Opens Fast In Masters

Chick Harbert, the long-hitting Detroit pro, led the first round of the Master's Tournament at Augusta, Ga., yesterday with a 4-under-par 68, but Milon Marusic, the former Bald Eagle of Wolfert's Roost, Albany, shared a fourth-place tie with Ben Hogan at 70.

A popular figure in the Woodstock Open and Wiltwyck Pro-Am for several years before he transferred his PGA membership to the Herkimer district, Marusic still retains his Northeastern New York membership.

The slim ex-serviceman carded the best nine holes of the day with an outgoing 32, but slumped to 38 on the back nine for a flat 70.

Harbert spliced 33 and 35 for his 68, while Al Besselink of Grossingers and Ed Oliver of Palm Springs, Cal., fired identical cards of 34-35-69 for second place.

A steady circuit performer, Marusic has never been able to crash through to a major triumph. He was brilliant on the front nine but his old bugaboo, errant drives, got him into trouble for soaring 38 on the home trek.

3 Birdies in Row

"I was just playing over my head going out," said the slender Herkimer pro. "Starting out I was really sticking my drives in there and the first thing you know I'm three under with birdies on the first three holes. Then a little later I sank a 20-footer for another."

Hogan needed only to par the last two holes to tie Harbert for the lead, but the 1951 Masters champion missed short putts on both and had to settle for fourth with Marusic.

Sam Snead shot a 70, but his playing partner, Byron Nelson, made a mistake in keeping score and gave him a par-4 on the 18th instead of the three he actually scored with a fine chip shot that hit the cup.

Snead signed the card without noticing the error. There was a lot of excited discussion when the mistake was caught, and the officials ruled Snead had to take a 71 if he wanted to continue his pursuit of his second consecutive Masters victory.

Lombardi Taken Off Critical List

Livermore, Calif., April 10 (AP) — Ernie Lombardi, former National League batting champ and Most Valuable Player, now is expected to survive the ear-to-ear throat slashing he gave himself.

The big, good-natured "Schnoz," recently despondent, tried to take his life with a razor blade Wednesday night.

He was given two blood transfusions and doctors said he had been taken off the critical list. He was transferred to Livermore Hospital.

Mrs. Lombardi said Ernie, 45, attempted suicide while en route to a sanitarium for psychiatric treatment.

Rappaport In Playoff

Bill Rappaport of Kingston is still checker champion of the Mid-Hudson district, although he's faced with a Sunday playoff to retain the laurels he won in 1952.

Rappaport tied with Joseph Schwartz of Poughkeepsie with 41 points in the annual tournament Thursday at the Poughkeepsie YMCA.

Fourteen of the mid-Hudson district's best checker wizards competed.

Other leaders were George Traver, Poughkeepsie, 39 points; Ray Philips and Sam Turnbull, Poughkeepsie, 35 points; and James Prior, Newburgh, 31 points.

The Sunday playoff is scheduled at 2 p. m., with the champion and runnerup receiving trophies donated by Ray Philips.

Yanks, Brooks AP Poll Picks For Pennants

New York, April 10 (AP)—If the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers meet in the World Series again this fall don't say you weren't given fair warning. An Associated Press poll of the Baseball Wrtiers' Association shows the experts are stringing along with last year's major league winners.

The Dodgers got the biggest vote as 105 of the 142 participating writers selected them to fly the National League championship colors for the third time in five years.

Eighty-seven said New York's American League entry, and current world champions, would make it five titles in a row. Cleveland's Indians were selected as the second place finisher with 48 votes.

The Philadelphia Phillies outpointed the New York Giants 886 to 873 for runner-up in the senior circuit on the basis of eight points for first place votes, seven for second, etc.

Brooklyn had a solid 1,090 votes. Fourth place in the balloting for the National League finish went to the St. Louis Cardinals with 809 points.

The Phils pulled down only 14 first place votes to 18 for the Giants but had stronger support for second place. The Cards were favored to win the pennant by five writers.

Charlie Grimm, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, played in two World Series (1929 and 1932) and hit .389 and .333, respectively.

Bucky Walters, coach of the Milwaukee Braves, won 198 games as a big league pitcher.

Blast Three Homers Off Vic Raschi

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates, probably some of the most harmless Buccaneers ever to hoist the skull and crossbones, were enjoying a hearty laugh today after meeting and conquering the vaunted New York Yankees.

They not only conquered the world champions, they humiliated them in what one New York writer was moved to describe as a battle between the worst and best major league teams without being able to tell which was which.

The score at Forbes Field was 10-5 with eight fat Pittsburgh runs coming off the high priced slants of Vic Raschi, one of the prides of the Yankees.

Ralph Kiner, Cal Abrams and Danny O'Connell slashed home runs off Raschi before the fast balling right hander took cover after seven innings. Kiner's blow came with two on base while Abrams' was a pinch hit effort. In all, the Pirates got 13 hits off Raschi and two more off relief man Tom Gorman, more than they collected on most days off the bush league Cubans they faced during spring training in Havana.

Mantle Hits Whopper

A tremendous home run over the roof of the double deck right field stands by Mickey Mantle was the only solace for the Yankees. The 360 foot drive was still 90 feet in the air when it disappeared from sight. Only two other players ever cleared that roof—Babe Ruth in 1935 with his 714th and last home run, and Ted Beard in 1950.

The Philadelphia Athletics pitted their best against their intercity rivals' best at Portsmouth, Va., yesterday and came out on the short end as Robin Roberts pitched a five-hit shutout for the Phillies and won, 4-0. Bobby Shantz gave up only two hits and struck out seven in the five innings he worked for the Athletics, but he gave up the first of the Phils runs and was charged with the loss. Roberts struck out seven in going nine innings for the first time this spring.

Rain cut short major league baseball's return to Milwaukee after a 50-year absence. The new Milwaukee Braves got in only two innings against their former city rivals, the Boston Red Sox, and were tailing, 3-0, when a heavy drizzle put an end to the proceedings.

Reds Change Name

Cincinnati, which announced yesterday that it intended to be called the Redlegs instead of the Reds this season, belted five home runs off Ned Garver and defeated Detroit, 13-3, at Columbus, Ohio.

At Kingsport, Tenn., the New York Giants picked on Bobby Feller for seven runs in the first six innings and outlasted the Cleveland Indians, 7-6.

Against Southern Association opposition the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Memphis Chicks, 12-5, and the Chicago White Sox blanked Atlanta, 7-0.

Cardinals Purchase Sportsman Park: Now Budweiser Park

St. Louis, April 10 (AP)—Sportsman's Park has a new owner and a new name today.

St. Louis' two ball clubs—the Cardinals and Browns—reversed their tenant-landlord role in an $800,000 deal. The Northside Park now is Budweiser Stadium.

Officials of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., owner of the Redbirds, and the Browns gave two reasons for the ownership change:

The Cardinals wanted to make expensive improvements, but not while someone else owned the park; and the Browns could use the money to help pay operating costs this year.

The Cardinals had been renting the park for $35,000 a year under a lease running through 1960. They also footed half the maintenance costs, which last year added an estimated $105,000 to their bill.

The Browns now will rent from from the Redbirds at $175,000 annually, but will have no maintenance expenses under the arrangement.

Babe's Future Still in Doubt

Beaumont, Tex., April 10 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias kept the traditional "stiff upper lip" today as physicians continued tests to determine the malady that threatens to end her great athletic career.

The famed woman golfer quit the tour after examination by a physician at Fort Worth revealed a serious condition. She came back to Beaumont, where she got her start toward fame as the world's outstanding feminine athlete, and entered a hospital yesterday.

"I feel fine and dandy and I think I could play some golf," she told a sports writer. But when she was asked what her malady was she referred him to her husband, former wrestler George Zaharias.

Zaharias said they wouldn't know until the X-rays and tests all have been made. An announcement is expected by tomorrow.

Dr. W. E. Tatum, the family physician who performed an operation for hernia on Mrs. Zaharias here last spring, said yesterday that he didn't know if surgery would cure her but expressed the opinion that she never would play championship golf again. But later Dr. Tatum declined comment after making first tests.

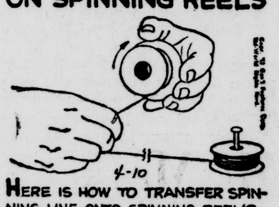
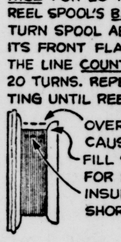
HOW TO PUT LINE ON SPINNING REELS



HERE IS HOW TO TRANSFER SPINNING LINE ONTO SPINNING REEL'S SPOOL WITHOUT CREATING KINKS. TIE A SLIP NOOSE AROUND SPOOL'S RECESS AND, KEEPING AN EVEN TENSION, WIND THE LINE CLOCKWISE FOR 20 TURNS, HOLDING THE REEL SPOOL'S BACK FLANGE. THEN TURN SPOOL ABOUT AND HOLD BY ITS FRONT FLANGE. NOW WIND THE LINE COUNTERCLOCKWISE FOR 20 TURNS. REPEAT THIS ALTERNATING UNTIL REEL SPOOL IS FILLED.



OVERFILLED SPOOL CAUSES LINE SNARLS. FILL SPOOL TO ITS LIP FOR BEST RESULTS. INSUFFICIENT FILLING SHORTENS THE CASTS.

Hoover Doubts Detector

Washington, April 10 (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says he would never accept results of a lie detector test as conclusive proof of guilt or innocence. Hoover's opinion of the polygraph, which shows blood pressure variations as a person is questioned, was brought out in testimony March 27 before the Senate Appropriations Committee. The testimony was released yesterday. The trouble with a polygraph lie detector, Hoover said, is that the operator must interpret what it records.

Sole Span

Frederick's, Dee-Dee's Win Women's Pennants

This was wrapup week for a couple of female tenpin leagues, with Frederick's Garage nailing down the Friendship League pennant and Dee Dee Knitwear capturing honors in the Sisterhood circuit.

Frederick's have won 65 and lost 22 for five-game margin over Sealtest, with only three games left on the slate. Kingston Lumber trails in third place with 59-28.

De Dee nosed out Anjay Sales for the Sisterhood League honors. Eleanor Dumenigo, Emma Pratt, Marge Jansen, Phyl Gehringer, Eleanor Singer, Gladys Schilling sparkled in the individual department.

Mrs. Dumenigo powered a 568 blast in the Central Rec League with 213-176-179 and Emma Pratt was only five sticks behind with 200-192-171.

Gladys Schilling, the tall young lady who bowls as if it were sheer delight everytime she throws a ball, was the real story in the Central Rec circuit.

First she uncorked her first "500" triple—534 worth—via 145, 158, 231. The latter set a career record for her in the solo department and was one of the best blasts of the season.

Jessie Burnett rolled 496, Jennie Spada 484 and Betty Cadden 475.

Team results:

Stone Ridge FA 3, Vanderlyn Battery 0; Tropical Inn 1, Jones Dairy 2; Fuller Shirts 2, Bowery Dugout 1; Old Capital Motors 3, Regina's 0.

Babe's Future Still in Doubt

Beaumont, Tex., April 10 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias kept the traditional "stiff upper lip" today as physicians continued tests to determine the malady that threatens to end her great athletic career.

The famed woman golfer quit the tour after examination by a physician at Fort Worth revealed a serious condition. She came back to Beaumont, where she got her start toward fame as the world's outstanding feminine athlete, and entered a hospital yesterday.

"I feel fine and dandy and I think I could play some golf," she told a sports writer. But when she was asked what her malady was she referred him to her husband, former wrestler George Zaharias.

Zaharias said they wouldn't know until the X-rays and tests all have been made. An announcement is expected by tomorrow.

Dr. W. E. Tatum, the family physician who performed an operation for hernia on Mrs. Zaharias here last spring, said yesterday that he didn't know if surgery would cure her but expressed the opinion that she never would play championship golf again. But later Dr. Tatum declined comment after making first tests.

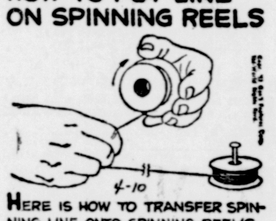
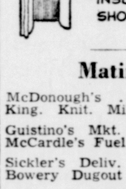
HOW TO PUT LINE ON SPINNING REELS



HERE IS HOW TO TRANSFER SPINNING LINE ONTO SPINNING REEL'S SPOOL WITHOUT CREATING KINKS. TIE A SLIP NOOSE AROUND SPOOL'S RECESS AND, KEEPING AN EVEN TENSION, WIND THE LINE CLOCKWISE FOR 20 TURNS, HOLDING THE REEL SPOOL'S BACK FLANGE. THEN TURN SPOOL ABOUT AND HOLD BY ITS FRONT FLANGE. NOW WIND THE LINE COUNTERCLOCKWISE FOR 20 TURNS. REPEAT THIS ALTERNATING UNTIL REEL SPOOL IS FILLED.



OVERFILLED SPOOL CAUSES LINE SNARLS. FILL SPOOL TO ITS LIP FOR BEST RESULTS. INSUFFICIENT FILLING SHORTENS THE CASTS.

ThirdManCharged As Taking Part In Fatal Shooting

New York, April 10 (AP)—A third unemployed Negro was chagred with homicide early today in connection with the fatal shooting late Saturday night of Patrolman Samuel Katz, of Queens, in Harlem.

At the same time, police of the West 135th street station announced, a 41-year-old Negro was booked as a material witness in the slaying of the 36-year-old patrolman, who was buried Wednesday.

Five persons, including the alleged actual killer, have been rounded up.

They include Theresa Ryan, 24, Negro, of 1043 Boston road, the Bronx, who was seized last Monday night with the two men who allegedly were surprised by Katz as they were holding up a dice game. She was booked as a material witness early Tuesday.

At that time, police charged Theodore Hayes, 30, of 343 St. Nicholas avenue, and Charles Jones, 29, of 1043 Boston road, the Bronx, the same address given by the Ryan woman, with homicide.

Hayes, police reported at the time, admitted firing at the patrolman when he walked in on the holdup.

Seized Last Night

The two latest figures in the case, who were seized early last night, were identified as James Bradford, 29, of 250 West 146th street, and Charles Boyd,, 41 of 296 West 146th street.

Both were taken into custody near their homes and questioned by Assistant District Attorneys Alexander Herman and Robert A. McElligott.

Shortly after 2:30 a. m., Bradford, who like Hayes and Jones is unemployed, was charged with homicide.

Police said he acted as "fingerman" in the dice game holdup by "casing" the location before the robbery.

Apparently, police said, he was not present during the robbery or the subsequent shooting of Katz.

Boyd, a newsstand dealer, was charged with being a material witness.

The two men were picked up by detectives Benjamin Page and John Cronin.

Katz was cut down by four bullets as he entered the cellar of a building at 220 West 146th street.

PSC Hearing . . .

John Shultis, supervisor of the town of Roxbury, Delaware county, Shultis testified that there is no bus service between Roxbury and Margaretville at present, and removal of the trains would leave the area with no means of public transportation. After Stevens brought out on cross examination that the passenger train does not serve Margaretville at present, Shultis stated that it does stop at Arkville, which is about two miles from Margaretville.

Frank Simmons of Kingston, railroad fireman, testified briefly to the effect that if the trains were removed some of the employes would be out of jobs. The testimony was received over Stevens' objections, who pointed out that the only issue was whether public convenience and necessity was served and the railroad "does not exist to give you or me a job."

The trains the railroad is seeking to discontinue are No. 527, daily except Sunday, which leaves Kingston at 7:30 a. m. and arrives at Oneonta at 12:15 p. m.; and No. 528, daily except Sunday, which leaves Oneonta at 12:45 p. m. and arrives at Kingston at 4:45 p. m. They are the last two remaining passenger trains on the Catskill Mountain Branch, which follows the right of way of the once thriving old Ulster and Delaware Railroad.

Intermediate stops on the line include West Hurley, Phoenicia, Grand Hotel Station, Fleischmanns, Arkville, Roxbury, Grand Gorge, Stamford, Davenport Center, and others.

Railroad witnesses in the early afternoon session included a number of statisticians and special investigators who introduced into evidence various reports they had compiled and told what sources they used in arriving at the figures.

The reports included those on volume of business, cost of operation, and related items, offered as a substantiation of the railroad's claim made earlier that it lost $36,327.83 in 1952 in the operation of the two trains.

Other exhibits were presented to show the increase in the use of passenger motor vehicles over the past 30 years. Comparing passenger motor vehicle registrations in the state with population, tables showed that in 1921 there was one car for every 15.7 persons in the state, and in 1950 there was one car for every 4.6 persons.

In Ulster county alone, the railroad's exhibits disclosed, there were 7,137 passenger motor vehicles registered in 1921, when a total of 74,979, or one car for every 10.5 persons. In 1950, there were 28,085 registered passenger vehicles, and a population of 92,621, or a total of one car for every 3.3 persons.

In compiling the tables, passenger motor vehicles was taken to include passenger automobiles, omnibus and taxi registrations.

Improved road mileage in the same period (1921-1950) increased from 184 miles to 1,403 in the county, and from 8,357 miles to 12,874 in the state as a whole. The figures include improved state highway mileage excluding cities, town and county highways.

Also introduced into evidence were tables compiled by the railroad showing in detail the revenue passengers handled on the trains for each day over several months in 1952. Most of the trips handled from two to six or seven passengers, with a few trips being made without any passengers, the tables showed. The figures were broken down to include points of departure and destination. For example, the table shows that on Nov. 1, 1952, on Train No. 527, two persons rode from Fleischmanns to Arkville, and one from Stamford to Bloomville, a total of three passengers on the train for the trip.

On October 27, a group of 72 school children and teachers rode the train from Phoenicia to Grand Hotel Station for a picnic. Witness W. R. Main testified that they "returned by bus."

Among the persons present in the court room during the hearing, but who had not been called to testify during the day, were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Fight Against Rheumatic Fever Calls for Daily Use of Drugs

Atlantic City, N. J., April 10 (AP)—A nationwide preventive campaign against rheumatic fever was launched today.

It is the first large-scale effort to put into general use the recently-marshaled evidence that recurrences of rheumatic fever can be prevented by daily use of penicillin or sulfa drug.

The plan is to have some four million Americans—most of them school children—receive a dose of one of the drugs every day for a period of years.

Groups Pledge Support

The various state and local Heart associations pledged themselves to the effort at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association (AHA).

The project—to be undertaken by the state and local associations throughout the country—is designed to aid the three per cent of the population who have had at least one "bout" of rheumatic fever.

That's the malady which is responsible for most of the heart disease in children and a large share of heart trouble in young adults. It causes more deaths in the first two decades of life than all other communicable diseases taken together.

Local Heart Associations won't furnish free penicillin or sulfa drug, or give actual treatment. But they will take the initiative in communities towards encouraging doctors to use the method—and also towards educating the public on the scientific findings.

Council Proved Report

It was the council on rheumatic fever of the AHA which recently gathered evidence of various investigators that either penicillin or sulfadaizine could prevent recurrences of rheumatic fever, because either can knock off "strep" infections which usually precede a rheumatic attack.

Dr. George M. Wheatley, of New York, and Dr. David Rutstein, of Harvard Medical School, both members of the council, told a reporter that the evidence actually had been available for a number of years, without being widely utilized, but that the council's action had brought it into sharp focus.

They said the council recently prepared a comprehensive statement on the evidence which was then circulated among physicians.

ThirdManCharged As Taking Part In Fatal Shooting

New York, April 10 (AP)—A third unemployed Negro was chagred with homicide early today in connection with the fatal shooting late Saturday night of Patrolman Samuel Katz, of Queens, in Harlem.

At the same time, police of the West 135th street station announced, a 41-year-old Negro was booked as a material witness in the slaying of the 36-year-old patrolman, who was buried Wednesday.

Five persons, including the alleged actual killer, have been rounded up.

They include Theresa Ryan, 24, Negro, of 1043 Boston road, the Bronx, who was seized last Monday night with the two men who allegedly were surprised by Katz as they were holding up a dice game. She was booked as a material witness early Tuesday.

At that time, police charged Theodore Hayes, 30, of 343 St. Nicholas avenue, and Charles Jones, 29, of 1043 Boston road, the Bronx, the same address given by the Ryan woman, with homicide.

Hayes, police reported at the time, admitted firing at the patrolman when he walked in on the holdup.

Seized Last Night

The two latest figures in the case, who were seized early last night, were identified as James Bradford, 29, of 250 West 146th street, and Charles Boyd,, 41 of 296 West 146th street.

Both were taken into custody near their homes and questioned by Assistant District Attorneys Alexander Herman and Robert A. McElligott.

Shortly after 2:30 a. m., Bradford, who like Hayes and Jones is unemployed, was charged with homicide.

Police said he acted as "fingerman" in the dice game holdup by "casing" the location before the robbery.

Apparently, police said, he was not present during the robbery or the subsequent shooting of Katz.

Boyd, a newsstand dealer, was charged with being a material witness.

The two men were picked up by detectives Benjamin Page and John Cronin.

Katz was cut down by four bullets as he entered the cellar of a building at 220 West 146th street.

PSC Hearing . . .

John Shultis, supervisor of the town of Roxbury, Delaware county, Shultis testified that there is no bus service between Roxbury and Margaretville at present, and removal of the trains would leave the area with no means of public transportation. After Stevens brought out on cross examination that the passenger train does not serve Margaretville at present, Shultis stated that it does stop at Arkville, which is about two miles from Margaretville.

Frank Simmons of Kingston, railroad fireman, testified briefly to the effect that if the trains were removed some of the employes would be out of jobs. The testimony was received over Stevens' objections, who pointed out that the only issue was whether public convenience and necessity was served and the railroad "does not exist to give you or me a job."

The trains the railroad is seeking to discontinue are No. 527, daily except Sunday, which leaves Kingston at 7:30 a. m. and arrives at Oneonta at 12:15 p. m.; and No. 528, daily except Sunday, which leaves Oneonta at 12:45 p. m. and arrives at Kingston at 4:45 p. m. They are the last two remaining passenger trains on the Catskill Mountain Branch, which follows the right of way of the once thriving old Ulster and Delaware Railroad.

Intermediate stops on the line include West Hurley, Phoenicia, Grand Hotel Station, Fleischmanns, Arkville, Roxbury, Grand Gorge, Stamford, Davenport Center, and others.

Railroad witnesses in the early afternoon session included a number of statisticians and special investigators who introduced into evidence various reports they had compiled and told what sources they used in arriving at the figures.

The reports included those on volume of business, cost of operation, and related items, offered as a substantiation of the railroad's claim made earlier that it lost $36,327.83 in 1952 in the operation of the two trains.

Other exhibits were presented to show the increase in the use of passenger motor vehicles over the past 30 years. Comparing passenger motor vehicle registrations in the state with population, tables showed that in 1921 there was one car for every 15.7 persons in the state, and in 1950 there was one car for every 4.6 persons.

In Ulster county alone, the railroad's exhibits disclosed, there were 7,137 passenger motor vehicles registered in 1921, when a total of 74,979, or one car for every 10.5 persons. In 1950, there were 28,085 registered passenger vehicles, and a population of 92,621, or a total of one car for every 3.3 persons.

In compiling the tables, passenger motor vehicles was taken to include passenger automobiles, omnibus and taxi registrations.

Improved road mileage in the same period (1921-1950) increased from 184 miles to 1,403 in the county, and from 8,357 miles to 12,874 in the state as a whole. The figures include improved state highway mileage excluding cities, town and county highways.

Also introduced into evidence were tables compiled by the railroad showing in detail the revenue passengers handled on the trains for each day over several months in 1952. Most of the trips handled from two to six or seven passengers, with a few trips being made without any passengers, the tables showed. The figures were broken down to include points of departure and destination. For example, the table shows that on Nov. 1, 1952, on Train No. 527, two persons rode from Fleischmanns to Arkville, and one from Stamford to Bloomville, a total of three passengers on the train for the trip.

On October 27, a group of 72 school children and teachers rode the train from Phoenicia to Grand Hotel Station for a picnic. Witness W. R. Main testified that they "returned by bus."

Among the persons present in the court room during the hearing, but who had not been called to testify during the day, were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Fight Against Rheumatic Fever Calls for Daily Use of Drugs

Atlantic City, N. J., April 10 (AP)—A nationwide preventive campaign against rheumatic fever was launched today.

It is the first large-scale effort to put into general use the recently-marshaled evidence that recurrences of rheumatic fever can be prevented by daily use of penicillin or sulfa drug.

The plan is to have some four million Americans—most of them school children—receive a dose of one of the drugs every day for a period of years.

Groups Pledge Support

The various state and local Heart associations pledged themselves to the effort at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association (AHA).

The project—to be undertaken by the state and local associations throughout the country—is designed to aid the three per cent of the population who have had at least one "bout" of rheumatic fever.

That's the malady which is responsible for most of the heart disease in children and a large share of heart trouble in young adults. It causes more deaths in the first two decades of life than all other communicable diseases taken together.

Local Heart Associations won't furnish free penicillin or sulfa drug, or give actual treatment. But they will take the initiative in communities towards encouraging doctors to use the method—and also towards educating the public on the scientific findings.

Council Proved Report

It was the council on rheumatic fever of the AHA which recently gathered evidence of various investigators that either penicillin or sulfadaizine could prevent recurrences of rheumatic fever, because either can knock off "strep" infections which usually precede a rheumatic attack.

Dr. George M. Wheatley, of New York, and Dr. David Rutstein, of Harvard Medical School, both members of the council, told a reporter that the evidence actually had been available for a number of years, without being widely utilized, but that the council's action had brought it into sharp focus.

They said the council recently prepared a comprehensive statement on the evidence which was then circulated among physicians.

East, South Get Wind and Rain; Two Die in Indiana

(By The Associated Press)

Early spring wind and rainstorms spread into the east and south today after sweeping across Illinois and Indiana last night, killing two persons and injuring about 30 others.

The storms lessened in severity as they moved into Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and parts of western New York and Pennsylvania and the central Appalachians.

Small tornadoes skipped across areas in east central Illinois and across Indiana to the Ohio border lat night. The twisters flattened houses and trees in several small communities and rural areas in both states.

Two Are Killed

The area near Albany, Ind., about 12 miles northeast of Muncie in the east central part of the state, appeared the hardest hit. Mrs. Stella Green, 47, and her son, Arnold, 10, were killed when their small frame house was demolished.

The strong winds and tornadoes were accompanied by heavy rain and by hail in some places.

In the west, light showers fell along the Pacific coast. Snow flurries were reported in the Rockies.

Potter to Transfer

Corning Chamber of Commerce during 1943 and 1944 and was again elected president last year. He is a member and past president of Corning Rotary Club and is affiliated with Rondout Lodge, 343, F. and A.M.

He now is serving as Steuben county deputy director of civil defense for communications.

Mr. Potter's wife, Mrs. Margaret E. Potter, is treasurer of the Corning Woman's Club, a member of Hospital Chapter F and serves with the canteen service of the disaster committee of Corning Red Cross Chapter. She is active in the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church.

Dr. Margaret E. Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Potter, is resident physician in pediatrics at Children's Hospital in Philadelphia. She obtained her medical degree at the University of Pennsylvania.

Potter will be succeeded in Corning by Robert A. Kane, who has been serving since October, 1952, as special representative in the Binghamton Service Engineering group, which handles the telephone needs of business customers.

Bohlen Can't Talk, Even About Weather

Berlin, April 10 (AP) — Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, arriving here by air en route to take over the top American diplomatic spot in Moscow, made it clear to newsmen today that he has been forbidden to talk about even the weather.

"I have no comment about anything at all," the tall, Russian-speaking diplomat said at Tempelhof airbase as he, his wife, two children, and one poodle alighted from a U. S. Air Force plane from Bonn.

Bohlen planned to rest here tonight before continuing to Moscow tomorrow.

UN Officers . . .

called forced repatriation, or repatriation by force, does not exist at all, and we always have opposed this assertion."

Presumably the letter expands on Chou's plan of March 30 for breaking the prisoner exchange deadlock. Chou proposed handing POWs who refused repatriation into custody of a neutral state.

Previously the Communists had demanded the forced repatriation of all prisoners and the allies had insisted that no prisoner should be forced to go home against his will.

While Chou's proposal seemed to move toward the principle of voluntary repatriation, it did not go as far as the India plan.

Chou suggested that the reluctant POWS in custody of a neutral state could be told by their own people what their decision to refuse repatriation meant. He did not say what would happen after that. He stressed, however, that the Reds were not abandoning their position on final repatriation.

Under the India plan, the prisoners would be given a chance to listen to both sides but would not have to go home against their will.

Asks for Details

Gen. Clark asked the Reds Sunday for full details of the Chou plan. This was one of two conditions he set for resuming full armistice negotiations. The other was agreement — now reached — on exchanging disabled prisoners.

The allies had expressed disappointment on the small number of prisoners to be returned by the Reds. But they did not let this disappointment block an agreement.

In all, the Reds say they hold about 13,000 allied prisoners, including 3,198 Americans, about 1,000 other non-Koreans, mostly British, and about 9,000 South Koreans.

The UN command holds 132,000 captured Reds. About 51,000 have said they would resist a return to Communist rule.

These lists were compiled in December, 1951. Both sides have taken more prisoners since.

The sick and wounded exchange operation will begin within 10 days after the agreement is signed and will be over within 20 days, although it is expected to require only 12 days.

If the agreement is signed Saturday, as expected, it is likely the exchange of sick and wounded will get underway next week.

Liaison officers will meet at 11 a. m. Saturday (9 p. m., EST, Friday) for the expected signing of the agreement on sick and wounded exchange. It was possible the signing could be delayed a day or so for minor technicalities.

Dulles Named . . .

through President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles."

Declines Any Information

Later, after discussing the situation with Eisenhower at the White House, Knowland declined to tell newsmen what the President had to say. He said, however, that Dulles had assured him "the story in the New York Times did not represent his (Dulles') point of view relative to policy in Korea and Formosa."

However, he said that he knew Anthony Leviero, who wrote the Times' story yesterday, "is an able, resourceful reporter (who) must have felt he had a responsible source." He added that Leviero "does not deal in rumors."

He said his conclusion, after the White House talk, was that the incident did not represent a new policy by the United States.

Leviero told Knowland other newspapers had printed similar stories and that all seemed to have the same source.

The Associated Press version of the story was published in afternoon newspapers of Wednesday. The story, written by AP diplomatic reporter John M. Hightower, discussed plans for a permanent peace in Korea and said:

"One idea receiving official consideration, it was understood today, is that any long-term peace arrangements should provide for a north-south dividing line at the narrow waist of the peninsula about 80 miles north of present battle lines."

No Denial Made

The White House statement did not deny that such a policy was "receiving official consideration."

The various stories about a post-armistice division of Korea touched off demonstrations in South Korea, whose president, Syngman Rhee, has vowed he will settle for nothing short of unification of the peninsula.

In New York, Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang said his country is eager for a truce, but it doesn't want "an uneasy truce with the real enemy, the Soviet Union, lying back, smiling quietly, readying itself for further aggression."

Without saying what prompted his question, the ambassador asked in a speech to the Bronx Board of Trade:

"Is the unification of my country, a unity that existed for 43 centuries, is that unification now to be considered impossible?"

Bingo Will Be Killed

Trenton, N. J., April 10 (AP)— Bingo has been sentenced to die in New Jersey. The state's 21 county prosecutors decided at a conference yesterday to put an end to bingo playing and to crack down on all forms of gambling. It is legal in New Jersey to bet money at race tracks and the state's Democratic party has sought since 1947 to make bingo legal.

Dr. Hayes Speaks To Kiwanis Club

Dr. Dorothy Hayes, director of elementary education, New Paltz State Teachers College, was the speaker at the regular noon meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Dr. Hayes reported her observations of Japan and Formosa while she was there on a special mission for World Health Service, on a workshop project in public health service. She returned to this country last December.

East, South Get Wind and Rain; Two Die in Indiana

(By The Associated Press)

Early spring wind and rainstorms spread into the east and south today after sweeping across Illinois and Indiana last night, killing two persons and injuring about 30 others.

The storms lessened in severity as they moved into Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and parts of western New York and Pennsylvania and the central Appalachians.

Small tornadoes skipped across areas in east central Illinois and across Indiana to the Ohio border lat night. The twisters flattened houses and trees in several small communities and rural areas in both states.

Two Are Killed

The area near Albany, Ind., about 12 miles northeast of Muncie in the east central part of the state, appeared the hardest hit. Mrs. Stella Green, 47, and her son, Arnold, 10, were killed when their small frame house was demolished.

The strong winds and tornadoes were accompanied by heavy rain and by hail in some places.

Strong winds continued today throughout the Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley with considerably colder air sweeping in from the west and north across the mid-continent.

In the west, light showers fell along the Pacific coast. Snow flurries were reported in the Rockies.

Bohlen Can't Talk, Even About Weather

Berlin, April 10 (AP)—Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, arriving here by air en route to take over the top American diplomatic spot in Moscow, made it clear to newsmen today that he has been forbidden to talk about even the weather.

"I have no comment about anything at all," the tall, Russian-speaking diplomat said at Tempelhof airbase as he, his wife, two children, and one poodle alighted from a U. S. Air Force plane from Bonn.

Bohlen planned to rest here tonight before continuing to Moscow tomorrow.

UN Officers . . .

called forced repatriation, or repatriation by force, does not exist at all, and we always have opposed this assertion."

Presumably the letter expands on Chou's plan of March 30 for breaking the prisoner exchange deadlock. Chou proposed handing POWs who refused repatriation into custody of a neutral state.

Previously the Communists had demanded the forced repatriation of all prisoners and the allies had insisted that no prisoner should be forced to go home against his will.

While Chou's proposal seemed to move toward the principle of voluntary repatriation, it did not go as far as the India plan.

Chou suggested that the reluctant POWS in custody of a neutral state could be told by their own people what their decision to refuse repatriation meant. He did not say what would happen after that. He stressed, however, that the Reds were not abandoning their position on final repatriation.

Under the India plan, the prisoners would be given a chance to listen to both sides but would not have to go home against their will.

Asks for Details

Gen. Clark asked the Reds Sunday for full details of the Chou plan. This was one of two conditions he set for resuming full armistice negotiations. The other was agreement — now reached — on exchanging disabled prisoners.

The allies had expressed disappointment on the small number of prisoners to be returned by the Reds. But they did not let this disappointment block an agreement.

In all, the Reds say they hold about 13,000 allied prisoners, including 3,198 Americans, about 1,000 other non-Koreans, mostly British, and about 9,000 South Koreans.

The UN command holds 132,000 captured Reds. About 51,000 have said they would resist a return to Communist rule.

These lists were compiled in December, 1951. Both sides have taken more prisoners since.

The sick and wounded exchange operation will begin within 10 days after the agreement is signed and will be over within 20 days, although it is expected to require only 12 days.

If the agreement is signed Saturday, as expected, it is likely the exchange of sick and wounded will get underway next week.

Liaison officers will meet at 11 a. m. Saturday (9 p. m., EST, Friday) for the expected signing of the agreement on sick and wounded exchange. It was possible the signing could be delayed a day or so for minor technicalities.

Dulles Named . . .

Declines Any Information

Later, after discussing the situation with Eisenhower at the White House, Knowland declined to tell newsmen what the President had to say. He said, however, that Dulles had assured him "the story in the New York Times did not represent his (Dulles') point of view relative to policy in Korea and Formosa."

However, he said that he knew Anthony Leviero, who wrote the Times' story yesterday, "is an able, resourceful reporter (who) must have felt he had a responsible source." He added that Leviero "does not deal in rumors."

He said his conclusion, after the White House talk, was that the incident did not represent a new policy by the United States.

Leviero told Knowland other newspapers had printed similar stories and that all seemed to have the same source.

The Associated Press version of the story was published in afternoon newspapers of Wednesday. The story, written by AP diplomatic reporter John M. Hightower, discussed plans for a permanent peace in Korea and said:

"One idea receiving official consideration, it was understood today, is that any long-term peace arrangements should provide for a north-south dividing line at the narrow waist of the peninsula about 80 miles north of present battle lines."

No Denial Made

The White House statement did not deny that such a policy was "receiving official consideration."

The various stories about a post-armistice division of Korea touched off demonstrations in South Korea, whose president, Syngman Rhee, has vowed he will settle for nothing short of unification of the peninsula.

In New York, Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang said his country is eager for a truce, but it doesn't want "an uneasy truce with the real enemy, the Soviet Union, lying back, smiling quietly, readying itself for further aggression."

Without saying what prompted his question, the ambassador asked in a speech to the Bronx Board of Trade:

"Is the unification of my country, a unity that existed for 43 centuries, is that unification now to be considered impossible?"

Bingo Will Be Killed

Trenton, N. J., April 10 (AP)—Bingo has been sentenced to die in New Jersey. The state's 21 county prosecutors decided at a conference yesterday to put an end to bingo playing and to crack down on all forms of gambling. It is legal in New Jersey to bet money at race tracks and the state's Democratic party has sought since 1947 to make bingo legal.

Dr. Hayes Speaks To Kiwanis Club

Dr. Hayes reported her observations of Japan and Formosa while she was there on a special mission for World Health Service, on a workshop project in public health service. She returned to this country last December.
